

Accounting cycle 1-8

- 1. Identify accounts affected by each transaction
- 2. Determine debits and credits for each account

1. Analyze each transaction to determine which accounts are affected and how they are affected (debit or credit). Determine the dollar amount for each account.

2. Journalize the transactions. For each transaction, write the date, the accounts affected, and the dollar amounts. Debits are recorded on the left side of the journal entry, and credits are recorded on the right side. Each entry must be balanced (total debits equal total credits).

3. Post the journal entries to the ledger. Transfer the debit and credit amounts from the journal to the corresponding T-accounts in the ledger.

4. Calculate the ending balances for each T-account. The ending balance for a debit account is the total debits minus the total credits. The ending balance for a credit account is the total credits minus the total debits.

5. Prepare a trial balance to verify that the ledger is balanced.

6. Prepare financial statements. Use the ending balances from the ledger to prepare the income statement, balance sheet, and statement of owner's equity.

7. Close the temporary accounts (revenues, expenses, and dividends) to the permanent accounts (retained earnings).

8. Prepare a post-closing trial balance to verify that the ledger is still balanced after the closing process.

9. Prepare a balance sheet and a statement of owner's equity for the end of the period.

10. Prepare a journal entry to reverse the closing process at the beginning of the next period.
