- Added 2 new External Pressure charts
- Added change for the Flange Rigidity requirement in Appendix 2

- Modified the input echo and output results from the Flange and Floating Head modules to be consistent with ASME nomenclature.
- Added the recommendation for the minimum gasket width in Floating Head calculations.

If the program is installed on the network, the batch file netuser.bat should be run from each user's machine to register the required dlls. Otherwise some parts of PVElite will not function.

Please note that periodically we will post fixes to the software on our web site at the location cited below. If you are having trouble with a particular calculation, check the COADE web site to see if there is a later version available that may fix your problem (also available from the PVElite Help menu). You should always run the latest version of the software.
