

The background of the cover is a photograph of two astronauts in white space suits working on the exterior of a space station. They are positioned in the upper center, with one appearing to be in a more active pose. The station's complex structure, including various modules and solar panel arrays, is visible against the blackness of space. In the lower portion of the image, the blue and white horizon of the Earth is visible, suggesting the station is in low Earth orbit. The overall scene is brightly lit, likely by the sun, creating high contrast between the white suits and the dark background.
