Statistical Analysis of Panel Count Data Jianguo Sun, Xingqiu Zhao, 2013-10-09 Panel count data occur in studies that concern recurrent events or event history studies when study subjects are observed only at discrete time points By recurrent events we mean the event that can occur or happen multiple times or repeatedly Examples of recurrent events include disease infections hospitalizations in medical studies warranty claims of automobiles or system break downs in reliability studies In fact many other fields yield event history data too such as demographic studies economic studies and social sciences For the cases where the study subjects are observed continuously the resulting data are usually referred to as recurrent event data This book collects and unifies statistical models and methods that have been developed for analyzing panel count data It provides the first comprehensive coverage of the topic The main focus is on methodology but for the benefit of the reader the applications of the methods to real data are also discussed along with numerical calculations There exists a great deal of literature on the analysis of recurrent event data This book fills the void in the literature on the analysis of panel count data This book provides an up to date reference for scientists who are conducting research on the analysis of panel count data It will also be instructional for those who need to analyze panel count data to answer substantive research questions In addition it can be used as a text for a graduate course in statistics or biostatistics that assumes a basic knowledge of probability and statistics

Handbook of Statistical Methods for Randomized Controlled Trials KyungMann Kim, Frank Bretz, Ying Kuen K. Cheung, Lisa V. Hampson, 2021-08-23 Statistical concepts provide scientific framework in experimental studies including randomized controlled trials In order to design monitor analyze and draw conclusions scientifically from such clinical trials clinical investigators and statisticians should have a firm grasp of the requisite statistical concepts The Handbook of Statistical Methods for Randomized Controlled Trials presents these statistical concepts in a logical sequence from beginning to end and can be used as a textbook in a course or as a reference on statistical methods for randomized controlled trials Part I provides a brief historical background on modern randomized controlled trials and introduces statistical concepts central to planning monitoring and analysis of randomized controlled trials Part II describes statistical methods for analysis of different types of outcomes and the associated statistical distributions used in testing the statistical hypotheses regarding the clinical questions Part III describes some of the most used experimental designs for randomized controlled trials including the sample size estimation necessary in planning Part IV describe statistical methods used in interim analysis for monitoring of efficacy and safety data Part V describe important issues in statistical analyses such as multiple testing subgroup analysis competing risks and joint models for longitudinal markers and clinical outcomes Part VI addresses selected miscellaneous topics in design and analysis including multiple assignment randomization trials analysis of safety outcomes non inferiority trials incorporating historical data and validation of surrogate outcomes

Regression methods for the analysis of count data. Generalised linear models for limited dependent variables Martin Georg Haas, 2021-04-06 Seminar paper from the year 2019 in the subject Business economics Miscellaneous grade 1 0 Zeppelin University Friedrichshafen course Advanced Methods N Limited Dependent Variables language English abstract This paper assesses the application of regression methods to analyse count data R Code and Data are available from the author While the common multiple regression method has a wide range of applicability and can be accommodated to various different kinds of regressor variables its application is limited to the modelling of response variables from the space of real numbers For the analysis of other kinds of responses such as counts a more generalised set of tools is needed This toolset is given by the generalised linear model framework and maximum likelihood estimation For the specific purpose of this paper the count data analysis methods of Poisson Negative Binomial Hurdle and Zero Inflation models are considered This paper explains their theoretical background and applies them to a unique dataset that motivates their respective use It is structured as follows section 2 describes the applied dataset and section 3 the generalised linear model framework In section 4 and section 5 the basic count data models and their results are discussed while section 6 and section 7 explain the more advanced methods and their results section 8 concludes
