#noprojects: A Culture of Continuous Value Evan Leybourn, Shane Hastie, 2018-07-18 Today success comes from building products people love creating loyal customers and serving the broader stakeholder community In this thoughtful exploration on the future of work the authors explore the past present and future of the project And why in today's fast changing hyper competitive world running a temporary endeavour is the wrong approach to building sustainable products and how noprojects is fundamentally changing the way companies work The metrics by which we have historically defined success are no longer applicable and we need to re examine the way value is delivered in the new economy This book starts from the premise that our goal is to create value for the customer for the organisation and for society as a whole and shows how to empower and optimise our teams to achieve this The authors draw on modern management approaches to provide proven techniques and tools for producing and sustaining creative products that go beyond meeting requirements

Prospettive civilistiche in ordine agli spazi di condivisione dei dati sanitari alla luce del Regolamento EHDS

Stefano Faillace, 2025-10-14 The subject of this monographic work is an in depth analysis of the rights and legal remedies available to data subjects as provided under national and European legal frameworks in cases involving the processing of health data for the purposes of individual care as well as for the pursuit of collective needs This analysis rests upon the precarious balance between the right to informational self determination and the free movement of data for scientific research purposes In examining the experiences of individual Member States of the European Union a fragmentation and lack of clarity in the regulatory framework have emerged This situation has led to the most recent Union legislation proposing a partial reconsideration of the approach adopted by the GDPR regarding the primary and secondary use of health data New regulatory directions have been outlined such as the strengthening of data subject rights notably the rights of access portability and rectification in the EHDS Regulation the intermediation of entities capable of inspiring trust in data subjects and supporting them in managing their personal data Data Governance Act and the introduction of the requirement for administrative authorisation issued by a public body for the secondary use of health data EHDS Regulation Moreover the EHDS proposes a reversal in the hierarchy of legal bases for the processing of health data shifting from the primacy of consent to that of public interest counterbalanced by the possibility for data subjects to exercise an opt out This work also undertakes a detailed examination of the contractual and non contractual liability profiles that may arise when there are deviations from the established terms and conditions governing access to and reuse of health data flows
