Summary of Simon Blackburn's Think Everest Media, 2022-04-09T22:59:00Z Please note This is a companion version not the original book Sample Book Insights 1 We all have the fear that the world we live in is a dream and that the things we take for granted are actually fantasies But how do we know that the world as we take it to be is the world as it is 2 The problems of the self mortality knowledge and the nature of the world are all raised in the oldest philosophical texts The generation before Descartes included the French essayist Montaigne whose motto was the title of one of his great essays Que sais je 3 There are six Meditations in the first part of the book In the first Descartes introduces the method of doubt He resolves that if he is to establish anything in the sciences that is stable and likely to last he must demolish all his ordinary opinions and start from the foundations 4 Descartes realized that his understanding of himself was not based on knowledge of his embodied existence He realized that a conception of oneself as an embodied thing living in an extended spatial world of physical objects will inevitably come back The I he is left with is pretty thin this puzzling I that cannot be pictured in the imagination

Visitor access and facilities Great Britain: Parliament: House of Commons: Administration Committee,2012-05-23 Approximately 1 million people enter the parliamentary estate every year as visitors rather than as Members or staff of the two Houses of Parliament The two Houses must balance the business needs of a fully working legislature and those of a visitor attraction Parliament is first and foremost a working institution and that implies clear principles for how access is organised Democratic access to the work of Parliament must remain free and open enabling any citizen at least so far as physical space allows open access to sittings in the two Chambers in the Committee Rooms and in Westminster Hall or to meet their Member of Parliament Considerable work needs to be done on how the visitor attraction part of Parliament is best operated not least in persuading some reluctant Members and staff of both Houses and an often instinctively negative media to recognise the difference between democratic access to the work of the place and interest in its heritage and tourism aspects The central idea that has emerged in this inquiry is that two conceptions of Parliament are required the working institution and the visitor attraction The two should be complementary not in conflict and some of the tensions that presently arise from for example queues outside the building and the consequent delay of business meetings for Members and others would be resolved if the two concepts were more rigorously held apart

Value Judgement James Griffin,1998 James Griffin asks how and how much we can improve our ethical standards not lift our behaviour closer to our standards but refine the standards themselves To give an answer to this question it is necessary to answer most of the questions of ethics So Value Judgement includes discussion of what a good life is like where the boundaries of the natural world come how values relate to that world how great human capacities the ones important to ethics are and where moral norms come from Throughout the book the question of what philosophy can contribute to ethics repeatedly arises Philosophical traditions such as most forms of utilitarianism and deontology and virtue ethics are Griffin contends too ambitious Ethics cannot be what philosophers in those traditions expect it to be because agents cannot be what their philosophies need them to be This clear compelling and original account of ethics will be of interest to anyone concerned with thinking about values not only philosophers but legal political and economic theorists as well

Being Good Simon Blackburn,2001 It is not only in our dark hours that scepticism relativism hypocrisy and nihilism dog ethics Whether it is a matter of giving to charity or sticking to duty or insisting on our rights we can be confused or be paralysed by the fear that our principles are groundless Many are afraid that in a Godless world science has unmasked us as creatures fated by our genes to be selfish and tribalistic or competitive and aggressive Simon Blackburn author of the best selling Think structures this short introduction around these and other threats to ethics Confronting seven different objections to our self image as moral well behaved creatures he charts a course through the philosophical quicksands that often engulf us Then turning to problems of life and death he shows how we should think about the meaning of life and how we should mistrust the sound bite sized absolutes that often dominate moral debates Finally he offers a critical tour of the ways the philosophical tradition has tried to provide foundations for ethics from Plato and Aristotle through to contemporary debates

On Truth Simon Blackburn,2018-06-01 Truth is not just a recent topic of contention Arguments about it have gone on for centuries Why is the truth important Who decides what the truth is Is there such a thing as objective eternal truth or is truth simply a matter of perspective of linguistic or cultural vantage point In this concise book Simon Blackburn provides an accessible explanation of what truth is and how we might think about it The first half of the book details several main approaches to how we should think about and decide what is true These are philosophical theories of truth such as the correspondence theory the coherence theory deflationism and others He then examines how those approaches relate to truth in several contentious domains art ethics reasoning religion and the interpretation of texts Blackburn s overall message is that truth is often best thought of not as a product or an end point that is finally achieved but as the American pragmatist thinkers thought of it as an ongoing process of inquiry The result is an accessible and tour through some of the deepest and thorniest questions philosophy has ever tackled
