Organization Expansion Between China and Taiwan Zhengqiang Chen,2005 The purpose of this study was to determine what categories of training programs have been provided by companies to improve employee job performance e g product quality improvement increased productivity and services and increased satisfaction in employees since Taiwan and China joined the WTO Additionally this study sought to determine how the training programs to improve employee job performance at certain companies were implemented This research examined the relationship between training expenditure time and fiscal and HRD managers perceptions of the effect of training on employee job performance This study also focused on whether there were significant training time and fiscal expenditure differences between Taiwanese businesses in Taipei and Chinese businesses in Shanghai Lastly this research examined whether HRD managers believed that employees with a two to five year technology based college or university degree required less training than did employees without such education This study involved 250 HRD managers of Taiwanese and Chinese businesses This study used descriptive statistical methods to report the frequencies for quantitative variables Correlational research was used to discover whether there was a relationship between different variables Based on the analysis and the findings of this study the training programs of total quality management customer service skills and business English were most important to improve employee job performance Industries should increase the use of outside HRD companies for training programs on site In addition Kendall s tau c analysis showed that time and fiscal expenditure on employee training and the HRD managers perceptions that employee training had a positive effect on employee job performance after Taiwan and China joined the WTO were significant but a negative correlation existed. Moreover, Chi square analysis demonstrated that there was no significant difference in time and expenditure allocation for employee training between Taiwanese and Chinese businesses. Lastly, both Taiwanese and Chinese HRD managers strongly believed that employees with a two to five year technology college or university degree required less training than employees without such education. In conclusion, recommendations were offered for industries and government policy makers, namely human resource training and development should be implemented because it was very important to cultivate the generation of manpower with good information technology, English, and creative skills.
