All-in Fighting Capt. W.E. Fairbairn, 2006-04-01 This hard to find 1942 classic on hand to hand combat from Capt W E Fairbairn one of the most respected names in close quarters combat is finally available to collectors of World War II era literature and practical ruthless fighting instruction in its original all inclusive British version All In Fighting published in the United States with the title Get Tough was written to introduce soldiers and civilians alike to the realities of close combat As Fairbairn states in his introduction Some readers may be appalled at the suggestion that it should be necessary for human beings of the twentieth century to revert to the grim brutality of the Stone Age in order to live But it must be realized that when dealing with an utterly ruthless enemy who has clearly expressed his intention of wiping this nation out of existence there is no room for any scruple or compunction about the methods to be employed in preventing him

The Invention of Martial Arts Paul Bowman, 2020-12-31 Through popular movies starring Bruce Lee and songs like the disco hit Kung Fu Fighting martial arts have found a central place in the Western cultural imagination But what would martial arts be without the explosion of media texts and images that brought it to a wide audience in the late 1960s and early 1970s In this examination of the media history of what we now call martial arts author Paul Bowman makes the bold case that the phenomenon of martial arts is chiefly an invention of media representations Rather than passively taking up a preexisting history of martial arts practices some of which of course predated the martial arts boom in popular culture media images and narratives actively constructed martial arts Grounded in a historical survey of the British media history of martial arts such as Bartitsu jujutsu judo karate tai chi and MMA across a range of media this book thoroughly recasts our understanding of the history of martial arts By interweaving theories of key thinkers on historiography such as Foucault and Hobsbawm and Said s ideas on Orientalism with analyses of both mainstream and marginal media texts Bowman arrives at the surprising insight that media representations created martial arts rather than the other way around In this way he not only deepens our understanding of martial arts but also demonstrates the productive power of media discourses
