INTEGRATIVE LITERATURE REVIEW

Written by [Your Name]

I. Introduction

The purpose of this Integrative Literature Review is to offer a holistic understanding of the current state of research on the impact of community-based interventions on mental health outcomes. This review synthesizes findings from a range of studies to provide a consolidated view of how various community programs influence mental well-being.

II. Theoretical Framework

A. Social Support Theory

The review is grounded in Social Support Theory, which posits that strong social networks and community engagement contribute significantly to individuals' mental health. This framework helps to contextualize the findings from the reviewed literature, emphasizing the role of social connections in enhancing mental health outcomes.

B. Ecological Systems Theory

Ecological Systems Theory provides additional context by examining how different levels of environmental influences, from immediate social circles to broader community settings, impact mental health. This perspective aids in understanding how community-based interventions operate within various environmental contexts.

III. Literature Synthesis

A. Community Programs and Mental Health
