Chapter 30 The War to End War

1917–1918

The world must be made safe for democracy. Its peace must be planted on the tested foundations of political liberty. We have no selfish ends to achieve. We desire no conquest, no dominion. We seek no indemnities for our past. We desire no material compensation for the sacrifices we shall freely make.

Woodrow Wilson, War Message, April 2, 1917

Dusting death cruelly with Woodrow Wilson. The lover of peace, as fate would have it, was forced to lead a hesitant and peace-loving nation into war. As the last days of 1916 slipped through the fingers, the president made one final, futile attempt at mediation between the embittered belligerents. On January 22, 1917, he delivered one of his most moving addresses, restating America's commitment to neutrality and declaring that only a negotiated "peace that would prove durable" would suffice. Germany's warlords responded with a blow of the fist. On January 31, 1917, they announced to an astonished world their decision to wage unrestricted submarine warfare, sinking all ships, including America's, in zone.

Was this rash act? War with America was the last Germany wanted. But after three ghastly years of trench warfare, Germany's leaders decided the distinction between combatants and noncombatants could no longer be maintained. They were no longer launched a filibuster to block the measure. Wilson denounced them as a "little group of willful men" who were rendering a great nation "helpless and contemptible." But their obstruction was a powerful reminder of the continuing strength of American isolationism. Meanwhile, the sensational Zimmermann note was intercepted and published on March 1, 1917. The foreign secretary Arthur Zimmermann had secretly proposed a German-Mexican alliance, tempting Mexico to join Germany in the war. The note promised Texas, New Mexico, and Arizona. On the heels of this provocation came the dreaded "overt" acts in the Atlantic. German U-boats sank four unarmed ships. The Atlantis was in the first two weeks of the war. The Atlantis was in the first two weeks of the war. The Atlantis was in the first two weeks of the war.

Autobiography of an Ex-white Man
Robert Paul Wolff,2005 Autobiography of an Ex White Man is an intensely personal meditation on the nature of America by a White Philosopher who joined a Black Studies Department and found his understanding of the world transformed by the experience The book begins with an autobiographical narrative of the events leading up to Wolff s transfer from a Philosophy Department to the W E B Du Bois Department of Afro American Studies at the University of Massachusetts and his experiences in the Department with his new colleagues all of whom had come to Academia from the Civil Rights Movement of the 1960s Wolff discovered that the apparently simple act of moving across campus to a new Department in a new building worked a startling change in the way he saw himself his university and his country Reading as widely as possible to bring himself up to speed in his new field of academic responsibility Wolff realized after a bit that his picture of American history and culture was undergoing an irreversible metamorphosis America he realized has from its inception been a land both of Freedom and of Bondage Freedom for the few and then for those who are White Bondage at first for the many and then for those who are not White Slavery is thus not an aberration an accident a Peculiar Institution it is the essence and core of the American experience Wolff s optimistic outlook leads him to express the hope that our acknowledging the realities of America s racial history and present will begin to tear down the formidable barrier to change He sees this refashioning of the American story as a first step toward the crafting of a truly liberatory project Robert Paul Wolff is Professor of Afro American Studies at the University of Massachusetts Amherst and the author of numerous books including Introductory Philosophy and In Defense of Anarchism
