Kristina Niedderer, Stephen Clune, Geke Ludden, 2017-08-23 Design impacts every part of our lives The design of products and services influences the way we go about our daily activities and it is hard to imagine any activity in our daily lives that is not dependent on design in some capacity Clothing mobile phones computers cars tools and kitchenware all enable and hold in place everyday practices Despite design's omnipresence the understanding of how design may facilitate desirable behaviours is still fragmented with limited frameworks and examples of how design can effect change in professional and public contexts This text presents an overview of current approaches dedicated to understanding how design may be used intentionally to make changes to improve a range of problematic social and environmental issues It offers a cross disciplinary and cross sectoral overview of different academic theories adopted and applied to design for behaviour change The aim of the volume is twofold firstly to provide an overview of existing design models that integrate theories of change from differing scientific backgrounds secondly to offer an overview of application of key design for behaviour change approaches as used across case studies in different sectors such as design for health and wellbeing sustainability safety design against crime and social design Design for Behaviour Change will appeal to designers design students and practitioners of behavioural change

Town Planning in Practice Sir Raymond Unwin, 1919 Journal of the American Institute of Architects, 1923

Breaking a Habit Xena Mindhurst, 2024-12-09 Breaking a Habit offers a groundbreaking exploration of why we persist with unwanted behaviors and how we can effectively change them through understanding the intricate relationship between our brain's neuroscience and our daily actions This comprehensive guide bridges the gap between scientific research and practical application revealing that habit modification involves far more than simple willpower it's a complex interplay of neurological patterns environmental triggers and behavioral responses The book systematically unpacks habit formation through three essential components the neurological foundations in our basal ganglia the psychological mechanisms that perpetuate habits and evidence based strategies for sustainable change By introducing readers to the concept of the habit loop cue routine reward it provides a framework for understanding how habits become embedded in our neural pathways The author skillfully weaves together insights from behavioral psychology neuroscience and environmental design to create a comprehensive approach to habit modification Progressing from theoretical understanding to practical implementation the book guides readers through four key sections that build upon each other habit formation mechanisms common misconceptions about willpower evidence based modification strategies specific action plans for different types of habits This structured approach supported by real world case studies and current research makes complex neurological concepts accessible while providing readers with concrete tools for lasting behavioral change
