Zillman, Milton Fernando Montoya, José Juan González, 2020-05-21 Energy justice has emerged over the last decade as a matter of vital concern in energy law which can be seen in the attention directed to energy poverty and the United Nations Sustainable Development Goals There are energy justice concerns in areas of law as diverse as human rights consumer protection international law and trade and in many forms of regional and national energy law and regulation This edited collection explores in detail at four kinds of energy justice The first distributive justice relates to the equitable distribution of the benefits and burdens of energy activities which is challenged by the existence of people suffering from energy poverty Secondly procedural or participation justice consists of the right of all communities to participate in decision making regarding energy projects and policies that affect them This dimension of energy justice often includes procedural rights to information and access to courts Under the concept of reparation or restorative justice the book looks at even handed enforcement of energy statutes and regulations as well as access to remedies when legal rights are violated Finally the collection addresses social justice with the recognition that energy injustice cannot be separated from other social ills such as poverty and subordination based on race gender or indigeneity These issues feed into a wider conversation about how we achieve a just energy transition as the world confronts the urgent challenges of climate change Innovation in Energy Law and Technology Donald N. Zillman, Martha M. Roggenkamp, LeRoy Paddock, Lee Godden, 2018 As energy innovation becomes imperative for the environment and energy security the law must be fleet footed to evolve in an unwieldy area of policy This much needed text assembles experts to analyse the most recent developments and to postulate how human rights sustainable development and the eradication of energy poverty could be achieved A Guide to Community Shared Solar National Renewable Energy Laboratory (Nr, 2015-02-15 This work has been selected by scholars as being culturally important and is
