

Process Approach to Writing

- The process approach to writing places emphasis on the different steps which compose the act of writing, and on the giving of feedback and space for that feedback to be integrated into the creative act.
- The teacher is not someone who simply sets a title and then stands back waiting for the final product which will then be delivered for correction; she or he scaffolds the creative process and helps students to co-create their writing, drawing on each other, their surroundings and their teaching.
- It is a mode which is much more in sympathy with social constructivist theories of learning than the earlier model of simple correction of the finished product.
- It corresponds much more closely with the theory of assessment for learning rather than of learning. Feedback which is given mid-writing, whether between drafts or mid-sentence, is much more useful than feedback given at the end. Students can act on advice on the spot. Feedback given on completed pieces of work, in the form of summative comments, will not have any impact on that piece of work, and is unlikely to do much to improve future pieces of work without specific activities to ensure that it does.
- White and Arntsd (1991) suggest that in addition, focusing on language errors 'improves neither grammatical accuracy nor writing fluency': instead, they say, paying attention to what students say during the process, and interacting with it, will lead to an improvement in their writing.
- The emphasis on the process is also designed to enable students to realise that what they have put on paper is not unchangeable. It is an important part of developing as a writer to understand that things can be deleted or added, restructured and redrafted.

Approaches To Teaching Writing:

Eight Approaches to Teaching Composition Timothy R. Donovan, Ben W. McClelland, 1980      Teaching Writing Tessa Daffern, Noella M. Mackenzie, 2020 In the 21st century writing is more important than at any other time in human history Yet much of the emphasis in schooling has been on reading and after the early years writing skills have been given less attention Internationally too many children are leaving school without the writing skills they need to succeed in life The evidence indicates that students rarely develop proficiency as writers without effective teacher instruction Teaching Writing offers a comprehensive approach for the middle years of schooling when the groundwork should be laid for the demanding writing tasks of senior school and the workplace Teaching Writing outlines evidence based principles of writing instruction for upper primary students and young adolescents It presents strategies that are ready for adoption or adaptation and exemplars to assist with designing and implementing writing lessons across the middle years of school It addresses writing from a multimodal perspective while also highlighting the importance of teaching linguistic aspects of text design such as sentence structure vocabulary and spelling as foundations for meaning making Contributors argue that students need to continue to develop their skills in both handwriting and keyboarding Examples of the teaching of writing across disciplines are presented through a range of vignettes Strategies for assessing student writing and for supporting students with diverse needs are also explored With contributions from leading literacy educators Teaching Writing is an invaluable resource for primary secondary and pre service teachers      Teaching Writing Adele Fiderer, 1993 Grade level 2 3 4 5 6 p e i t

Preparing To Teach Writing James D. Williams, 2003-03 Preparing to Teach Writing Research Theory and Practice Third Edition is a comprehensive survey of theories research and methods associated with teaching composition successfully The primary goal is to provide practicing and prospective teachers with the knowledge they need to be effective teachers of writing and to prepare them for the many challenges they will face in the classroom Overall the third edition of Preparing to Teach Writing is clearer and more comprehensive than the previous editions It combines the best of the old with new information and features The discussions and references to foundational studies that helped define the field of rhetoric and composition are preserved in this edition Also preserved is most of the pedagogical apparatus that characterized the first two editions research and theory are examined with the aim of informing teaching New in the Third Edition a more thorough discussion of the history of rhetoric from its earliest days in ancient Greece to the first American composition courses offered at Harvard University in 1874 a major revision of the examination of major approaches to teaching writing current traditional rhetoric new rhetoric romantic rhetoric writing across the curriculum social theoretic rhetoric postmodern rhetoric and post postmodern rhetoric considering their strengths and weaknesses an extension of the discussion of strengths and weaknesses of major approaches to its logical conclusion Williams advocates an epistemic approach to writing instruction that demonstrably leads to improved writing instruction when implemented effectively a more detailed account of the phonics whole language debate that continues to puzzle many teachers and parents a new focus on why grammar instruction alone does not lead to better writing the difference between grammar and usage and how to teach grammar and usage effectively an expanded section on Chicano English that now includes a discussion of Spanglish more information on outcome objectives the Council of Writing Program Administrators statement of learning outcomes for first year composition courses has been included to help high school teachers better understand how to prepare high school students for college writing and to help those in graduate programs prepare for teaching assistantships in first year composition courses and a more comprehensive analysis of assessment that considers such important factors as the validity reliability predictability cost fairness and politics of assessment and the effects on teaching of state mandated testing and also provides an expanded section on portfolios

Visual Approaches to Teaching Writing Eve Bearne,2007 Teaching Writing Colin Peacock,2017-11-28 Originally published in 1986 The traditional approach to teaching writing concentrates on mastering the different aspects of writing in the hope that these will eventually unite as a set of integrated skills More progressive teachers emphasise that writing is a total process which is caught intuitively rather than explicitly taught Both models are partially unsatisfactory and consequently a third approach has evolved which seeks to combine the best of both This book considers this systematic approach which seeks to retain the emphasis on writing as a total process but identifies within each communicative context the set of sub skills involved The author discusses and illustrates the strengths and weaknesses of this approach and the changes in professional thinking and practice that are essential to its successful adoption He presents an overview of the nature of the writing process to enable teachers to make clearer and more explicit statements about their objectives in setting classroom writing tasks

An Integrated Approach in the Teaching of Writing Abir A. Suleiman, 2014 Writing is an important skill in the teaching and learning of English as a foreign language The purpose of writing is to communicate needs feelings and ideas to others It is a means of self expression However many students fear the idea of writing as they lack the skills required to approach a writing assignment This dissertation proposes the integration of strategies that serve to improve writing skills Some of these strategies include the use of daily oral practice the use of modeling and demonstration the process writing approach which includes brain storming and peer editing the use of self selected writing and the use of portfolios The experimental method of research is used to investigate the effectiveness of these strategies on the students written communication skills The results of the study reveal that the combination of the strategies mentioned above served to improve the students written communication skills Each of the strategies contributed in one way or another to improve the students performance in writing It is recommended that research be conducted on the best ways possible to train teachers on how to approach writing in their classes and that teachers and instructors of English cooperate with each other to plan the curriculum as well as the classroom activities in order to help students develop as writers

The Writing Revolution Judith C. Hochman, Natalie Wexler, 2017-07-27 Why you need a writing revolution in your classroom and how to lead it The Writing Revolution TWR provides a clear method of instruction that you can use no matter what subject or grade level you teach The model also known as The Hochman Method has demonstrated over and over that it can turn weak writers into strong communicators by focusing on specific techniques that match their needs and by providing them with targeted feedback Insurmountable as the challenges faced by many students may seem The Writing Revolution can make a dramatic difference And the method does more than improve writing skills It also helps Boost reading comprehension Improve organizational and study skills Enhance speaking abilities Develop analytical capabilities The Writing Revolution is as much a method of teaching content as it is a method of teaching writing There s no separate writing block and no separate writing curriculum Instead teachers of all subjects adapt the TWR strategies and activities to their current curriculum and weave them into their content instruction But perhaps what s most revolutionary about the TWR method is that it takes the mystery out of learning to write well It breaks the writing process down into manageable chunks and then has students practice the chunks they need repeatedly while also learning content
