Abstract: Present study reveals the flow of a classical non-Newtonian fluid based on the Williamson model through a vertical flat plate. The free convective flow is generated because of the effect of buoyancy relating to the temperature. In addition to that, the influence of thermal radiation and heat source/sink in conjunction with the dissipative heat enhances the efficiency of transport phenomenon within the bounding surface. Well-proposed similarity transformation is used to transform the governing equation into ordinary. However, due to the dissipation, the nonlinear coupled problems are complex. For the solution, a semi-analytical approach such as differential transformation method (DTM) in association with the Padé approximant method is used instead of traditional numerical technique. Padé-approximant is useful to get a non-iterative solution without imposing the missing boundary conditions. It is a simple and effective way to determine the solutions of complex nonlinear problems with assumed boundary conditions at infinity. The physical significance of all the contributing parameters distinguished the flow properties are achieved and accessible graphically. Moreover, the validation of the present methodology with the traditional numerical technique is obtained, showing an excellent correlation in particular cases.

1. Introduction

Body forces on fluid create natural convection flow problems that are frequently come across in fluid engineering. Such natural convection problems may be taken as convection flow about a plane surface, kept along the direction of the force. One of the cases was analyzed by Schmidt and Beckmann [1], considering the convection of air through a vertical surface in the existence of the earth's gravitational field. The impact of the magnetic field upon an electro-conductive fluid affecting the natural convection is generally experienced in aerospace engineering, design of nuclear reactors, and so many engineering applications. The heat transport phenomena of an electro-conductive non-Newtonian liquid through the surface via the interaction of magnetic field is analyzed by Mishra et al. [2]. Considering the impact of reacting species and non-uniformity in heat sources, they found that the applied magnetic field
