

Notion of Introduction to Literature Chapter 3: Narration and Point of View: Selection Notes

100 pp. Kelly provides a list of questions that guide your reading process.

Question set p. 147:

Answer:

These questions are the structural elements of narrative: focus, point of view, and voice. These include narrative elements: characters, and perspective. Focus is a particular moment. Narrative voice represents multiple voices.

Answer:

These emphasize the narrative voice of language. Language does not only focus. It may include characters and perspective, multiple voices, and language used. Language used includes style and tone.

Point of view:

Focus is what is being or occurring in story. It refers to the focal point of the story. It is the central perspective that governs.

Types of Narration:

What is a third person omniscient? p. 170

That story told by the omniscient third person, i.e. narrator using "he" or "she" to describe events that are unfolding. In other words, the point of view holder appears to be able to hear all that is going on in the world.

What is meant by the term "omniscient narrator"? p. 170

It is omniscient narrator that knows the thoughts of the characters and the events of the world.

What is meant by the omniscient narrator? p. 170

As just as well as a story. They don't have knowledge and control over characters' thoughts or feelings, but can simply report on what is happening.

What is a third person omniscient? p. 170

Although the perspective is a particular character, they can see all that is going on in the world. They are able to see the thoughts of the characters and the events of the world.

What is meant by the term "omniscient narrator"? p. 170

It is omniscient narrator that can see all that is going on. Frequently called the "God" or "Heavenly" narrator. They can see all that is going on in the world.
