Understanding Mathematics K B Sinha:

Understanding Mathematics K.B. Sinha, 2001 The book explains the hows and ways and also whets the appetite of a good student for more of good mathematics Indian Books in Print, 2003 Journal of the Indian Institute of Science Indian Institute of Science, Bangalore, 1986 Mathematical Scattering Theory Dmitrii Rael'evich Yafaev, 1992 Scattering theory presents an excellent example of interaction between different mathematical subjects operator theory measure theory the theory of differential operators and equations mathematical analysis and applications of these areas to quantum mechanics Because of the interplay of these fields a deep understanding of scattering theory can lead to deep insights into the developing world of modern mathematics Quantum Probability and Applications III Luigi Accardi, 1988 These proceedings of the first Quantum Probability meeting held in Oberwolfach is the fourth in a series begun with the 1982 meeting of Mondragone and continued in Heidelberg 84 and in Leuven 85 The main topics discussed were quantum stochastic calculus mathematical models of quantum noise and their applications to quantum optics the quantum Feynman Kac formula quantum probability and models of quantum statistical mechanics the notion of conditioning in quantum probability and related problems dilations quantum Markov processes quantum central limit theorems With the exception of K mmerer s review article on Quantum Markov Processes all contributions are original research papers Revue Romaine de Mathématiques Pures Et Appliquées, 1992 Quantum Mechanics Ramabhadra Vasudevan, R. Ramanathan, 2008 One of the great debates albeit a schism in twentieth century physics arose over the interpretation of the quantum phenomenon On the one hand was the so called Copenhagen School with Neils Bohr as its high priest and on the other were the objective realists under the leadership of Albert Einstein The former stressed the role of the nature of measurement as the source of the quantum phenomenon while the latter attributed it to some underlying Objective cause The attempt of this book is to present a self consistent treatment of quantum phenomenon using one of the most promising Objective realist approach namely the stochastic formulation of quantum mechanics which a whole school of physicists who were and are votaries to the objective realist world view have tried to develop over the last several decades There are many facets of this scheme that are rich areas for further pursuit by young and enthusiastic physicists and this book hopefully will induce many to pursue this vision BOOK JACKET Commonwealth Universities Yearbook, 1984 Estimates and Asymptotics for Discrete Spectra of Integral and Differential Equations M. Sh Birman, 1991 The Leningrad Seminar on mathematical physics begun in 1947 by V I Smirnov and now run by O A Ladyzhenskaya is sponsored by Leningrad University and the Leningrad Branch of the Steklov Mathematical Institute of the Academy of Sciences of the USSR The main topics of the seminar center on the theory of boundary value problems and related questions of analysis and mathematical physics This volume contains adaptations of lectures presented at the seminar during the academic year 1989 1990 For the most part the papers are devoted to investigations of the spectrum of the Schrodinger operator or its generalizations perturbed by some relatively compact operator The book studies the discrete spectrum that emerges in the spectral gaps of the nonperturbed operator and considers the corresponding estimates and asymptotic formulas for spectrum distribution functions in the large coupling constant limit The starting point here is the opening paper which is devoted to the important case of a semi infinite gap The book also covers the case of inner gaps related questions in the theory of functions and an integral equation with difference kernel on a finite interval The collection concludes with a paper focusing on the classical problem of constructing scattering theory for the Schrodinger operator with potential decreasing faster than the Coulomb potential
