

- 1 In a light experiment, a plane mirror is placed upright at the corner of a piece of graph paper, as shown in Fig. 1.1. A small lamp acts as a bright object. The lamp is placed over a point L on the edge of the graph paper that is adjacent to the mirror. Note that
- the mirror has a line drawn on its face,
 - there is a card with a vertical viewing slot.

Fig. 1.1

Some of the light rays coming from the lamp are reflected from the line that is drawn on the mirror. These rays are located by looking through the slot in the card. When the card is in the correct position, the slot in the card, the line on the mirror and the lamp appear to be in one straight line.

The distances shown as y and x are measured.

In all, the experiment was performed with the lamp in four positions. These are shown in Fig. 1.2 on page 3 and are labelled L_1 , L_2 , L_3 and L_4 . The values for x are 180 mm, 150 mm, 100 mm and 50 mm.

The corresponding positions for the slot are labelled S_1 , S_2 , S_3 and S_4 .

- (a) Fig. 1.2 shows the graph paper and the positions of the lamp labelled L and the slot labelled S. Four incident rays and one reflected ray are shown.
- Complete the diagram by drawing the three remaining reflected rays.
 - For each reflected ray you have drawn, measure and record the value for y .
 - Complete the table in Fig. 1.2 by calculating the three missing values of xy .
- [3]
- (b) Explain how the viewing slot enables the student to locate the reflected ray.

Physics Alternative To Practical Gce 2013 Paper:

Johnstone Triangle Norman Reid, 2021-01-18 Chemistry is often seen as a difficult subject to understand This book focusses on the triangle model that Alex H Johnstone developed in the early 1980s Originally conceived in the context of making chemistry more accessible to a wider range of learners the model has been applied in almost every area of education in chemistry at all stages of learning In looking at why chemistry is difficult there are two central questions Firstly does the problem relate to the nature of chemistry and secondly does it relate to the way humans gain understanding Both were found to be important and the answers to the two question were found to be connected The triangle model arose from sustained research into human learning The central finding from research is the critical role of working memory and the model rationalises so much evidence from chemistry education research as well as the repeated experiences of teachers of chemistry at all levels In order to understand chemistry it is essential to develop sound mental models of molecular reality It generates major implications for the way a chemistry curriculum should be constructed and the processes of teaching and learning in chemistry when the goal is focussed on understanding the key ideas Some of these implications are developed and pointers offered to more successful ways forward The power of the Johnstone Triangle lies in the way it offers clear directions for all involved in chemistry education It is hoped that this book will prove helpful to all involved in sharing the exciting story of the way humans have come to understand the molecular world one of the great examples of great human endeavour
