Utilizing Evidence-Based Lessons Learned for Enhanced Organizational Innovation and Change McIntyre, Susan, 2014-09-30 Lessons Learned is a knowledge management approach for organizational learning and improved performance and productivity However beneficial this approach is few organizations have been able to implement the processes necessary for organizational success Utilizing Evidence Based Lessons Learned for Enhanced Organizational Innovation and Change links the theoretical foundation of the lessons learned approach with current tools and evidence based research in support of organizational development Outlining best practices and emerging research in organizational learning this publication is ideal for project managers academicians researchers and upper level students looking to implement these processes into their project management cycle particularly in the risk management and quality control processes Fostering Diversity and Inclusion Through Curriculum Transformation Tabane, Cily Elizabeth Mamatle, Diale, Boitumelo Molebogeng, Mawela, Ailwei Solomon, Zengele, Thulani Vincent, 2023-07-19 Because of the COVID 19 Pandemic students and lecturers were left to absorb and negotiate waves of constantly changing government instructions blended in the online world with disinformation and fearmongering while still attempting to pursue the exchange and expansion of teaching content Student and lecturer wellness needs have begun expanding and changing along with the needs of the disabled community all of which must be considered and integrated towards a responsible curriculum transformation Fostering Diversity and Inclusion Through Curriculum Transformation offers a rounded revisioning of curriculum transformation within this era and covers newly emerging case studies in the wake of the COVID 19 Pandemic Covering key topics such as curriculum assessment diversity and evaluation this premier reference source is ideal for principals administrators researchers scholars academicians practitioners instructors and students Terminal evaluation of the project "Participatory assessment of land degradation and sustainable land management in grassland and pastoral systems" Food and Agriculture Organization of the United Nations, 2022-02-10 The project Participatory assessment of land degradation and sustainable land management in grassland and pastoral systems was implemented from 2017 to 2021 in Burkina Faso Kenya Kyrgyzstan the Niger and Uruguay The project successfully developed and tested a participatory rangeland and grassland assessment methodology PRAGA providing a practical tool for collecting data and information on rangeland and grassland health thereby contributing to enable informed decision making for sustainable rangeland and grassland management thus aligning with UNCCD and SDG 15 Life on Land The evaluation provides five recommendations i develop strategies for facilitating the use by national stakeholders of remote sensing and GIS ii strengthen the gender dimension iii refine and promote PRAGA as a tool for monitoring of national CBD and UNFCCC commitments iv integrate more PRAGA assessments in interventions that invest in tangible rangeland management improvements and v establish an institutional home in FAO for rangeland and grassland management Sustainable Agriculture for Biodiversity -

Biodiversity for Sustainable Agriculture Food and Agriculture Organization of the United Nations, 2018-06-08 This brochure presents FAO's work on mainstreaming biodiversity as a cross-cutting theme in the agriculture, fisheries and forestry sectors. It provides examples of on-the-ground activities and highlights relevant international mechanisms. It shows how biodiversity and ecosystems benefit people in countless ways by providing food, clean water, shelter and raw materials for our basic needs. Agriculture is a major user of biodiversity but also has the potential to contribute to the protection of biodiversity. Occupying more than one-third of land in most countries of the world, if managed sustainably, agriculture can contribute to important ecosystem functions. These include maintenance of water quality, erosion control, biological pest control and pollination. Our ability to benefit from ecosystem services in the future will depend critically on how we understand value and manage them today, both within and outside agricultural production systems. To achieve this objective, the different sectors need to work together.

Practical Field Ecology C. Philip Wheater, James R. Bell, Penny A. Cook, 2020-08-03 Offers a comprehensive, accessible introduction to experimental design, field monitoring skills for plants and animals, data analysis, interpretation and reporting. This user-friendly book presents field monitoring skills for both plants and animals within the context of a research project. This text provides a single resource to take the reader all the way through from the planning stage into the field, guiding through sampling, organism identification, computer-based data analysis and interpretation, and finally how to present the results to maximise the impact of the work. Logically structured throughout and revised extensively in the second edition, the book concentrates on the techniques required to design a field-based ecological survey and shows how to execute an appropriate sampling regime. It evaluates appropriate sampling and analytical methods, identifying potential problems associated with various techniques and how to mitigate these. The second edition of this popular text has updated reference material and weblinks, increased the number of case studies by 50% to illustrate the use of specific techniques in the field, added over 20% more figures, including 8 colour plates, and made more extensive use of footnotes to provide extra details. Extensions to topics covered in the first edition include additional discussion of ethical issues, statistical methods, sample size estimation, use of the statistical package R, mixed models, bioindicators, especially for freshwater pollution, seeds, fecundity and population dynamics, including static and dynamic life tables, forestry techniques including tree coring and tree mortality calculations, the use of data repositories, writing for a journal and producing poster and oral presentations. In addition, the use of new and emerging technologies has been a particular focus, including mobile apps for environmental monitoring and identification, land cover and GIS, the use of drones, including legal frameworks and codes of practice, molecular field techniques including DNA analysis in the field, including eDNA, photo matching for identifying individuals, camera trapping, modern techniques for detecting and analysing bat echolocation calls and data storage using the cloud. Divided into six distinct chapters, Practical Field Ecology 2nd Edition begins at project inception with a chapter on planning, covering health and safety along with guidance on how to ensure that the sampling and experimental design is suitable for subsequent statistical analysis Following a chapter dealing with site characterisation and general aspects of species identification subsequent chapters describe the techniques used to survey and census particular groups of organisms The final chapters cover analysing interpreting and presenting data and writing up the research Offers a readable and approachable integrated guide devoted to field based research projects Takes students from the planning stage into the field and clearly guides them through organism identification in the laboratory and computer based data analysis interpretation and data presentation Includes a chapter on how to write project reports and present findings in a variety of formats to differing audiences Aimed at undergraduates taking courses in Ecology Biology Geography and Environmental Science Practical Field Ecology 2nd Edition will also benefit postgraduates seeking to support their projects
