Singleton, 2016-04-29 While in recent years the burgeoning Higher Education HE sector has been set an agenda of widening participation few HE institutions have strategies in place for reaching the full range of potential students most likely to benefit from and successfully complete their current subject and course offerings Universities and colleges are often unsystematic in the ways in which they identify schools and colleges for outreach and widening participation initiatives and sometimes uncoordinated in how they present the full institutional profile of subjects of study in these activities Using innovative methodology this book sets out some relevant aspects of the changing HE policy setting arena and presents a systematic framework for broadening participation and extending access in an era of variable fees In particular the book illustrates how HE data and publicly available sources might enable institutions to move from piecemeal analysis of their intake to institution wide strategic and geographical market area analysis for existing and potential subject and course offerings The Electrical Journal, 1894 The Popular Science Monthly, 1919 Staying the course Great Britain: Parliament: House of Commons: Committee of Public Accounts, 2008-02-20 Around 28 000 full time and 87 000 part time students who started first degree courses in 2004 05 were no longer in higher education a year later There has been little improvement in student retention since 2001 02 though participation in higher education has increased from around 40 per cent to nearly 43 per cent of 18 30 year olds Universities have received around 800 million over the last five years to help improve retention and participation In 2001 02 the Committee concluded HC 588 ISBN 9780215005496 that there was a need for improvement in several areas reducing the wide variation in retention rates funding to support students from low income backgrounds tackling skills gaps supporting disabled students better information The Committee's findings in this report include there has been no reduction in the variation in retention rates by widening participation in higher education higher education institutions need to understand the needs of their changing student populations through the use of market research techniques the Higher Education Funding Council for England should agree clear expectations for planned improvements in retention of students and make it part of any improvement plans that only about half of part time students obtain a qualification within six years and there is no specific framework to encourage improvement that some students feel that academic and pastoral support is limited and does not meet their needs information on why students withdraw from their courses is not reliable substantial variations exist between universities in the proportions of students with disabilities
