Properties of Matter

QUESTIONS

Are you able to determine, how these questions are asked?

- Why, according to you, are all things grouped together?
- Why are substances and mixtures classified together?

What Are Physical Properties?

Start with the table in the chapter below to start to understand physical properties of some common substances.

Physical properties are characteristics that can be observed without changing the identity of the substance. Mass and the properties of an object change as it moves. For example, you can observe an object's color, shape, size, or weight. However, the properties of an object are determined by the properties of the particles that make up the object, not by its mass.

Many of the physical properties of substances that make up objects can be measured. These properties include density, hardness, magnetism, and the ability to conduct heat and electricity.

Some physical properties depend on how much of a material you have. In other words, a large amount of a material may have different properties than a smaller amount of the material. Other physical properties do not depend on how much of the material you have. They show that no matter how large or small a sample of material is, the quality of the property is always the same.

LEARNING OBJECTIVE

Identify the physical and chemical properties of substances and mixtures. Classify substances and mixtures based on their physical and chemical properties.

LEARNING CHECK

1. Identify the physical and chemical properties of the following substances.

LEARNING CHECK

2. Identify the physical and chemical properties of the following substances.
