

STRATEGIC MANAGEMENT ACCOUNTING

"Accounting exists within an business primarily to facilitate the development and implementation of business strategy..."

Three important generalizations emerge from this way of viewing management accounting:

- Accounting is not an end in itself, but only a means to help achieve business success
- Specific accounting techniques or systems must be considered in terms of the role they are intended to play
- In evaluating the overall accounting system... the key question is whether the overall fit with strategy is appropriate."

Shank, John K. and Vijay Govindarajan, Strategic Cost Management, The Free Press, Macmillan, Inc., 1993, pp. 6-7.

Management Accounting Al Bhimani, Michael Bromwich, 2009-09-16 Management Accounting is part of the celebrations to mark CIMA's 90th anniversary in 2009 It looks at the development of cost and management accounting from the founding of the Institute to today It considers a number of immediate challenges to management accountants and surveys a range of issues and challenges that will likely affect management accounting thought and practice in the future The authors examine the possibilities for accountants to widen their focus and become more familiar with the enterprise technology determining their organisations cost structures and with the effects of multiple production in various locations such as economies or diseconomies of scale Such change may require the alteration of traditional cost models used by accountants to become more nuanced The book suggests how this may be accomplished and highlights the need for management accountants to work as part of management teams throughout the organisation as business partners rather than remain grounded in specialist information provision roles Alnoor Bhimani is Professor of Management Accounting at the London School of Economics He is also a Certified Management Accountant as well as an author of 15 books and over 100 articles Michael Bromwich was CIMA's Professor of Accounting and Financial Management at the London School of Economics and Political Science 1985 to 2006 now Emeritus He is a Past President of CIMA 1987-88 and currently serves on CIMA's Technical Committee A unique survey of 90 years of CIMA research Analyses the research to determine future challenges for management accounting and business practices Charts the history of management accountancy and business practice over nearly 100 years

Strategic Management Accounting and Business Strategy Lino Cinquini, 2009 Purpose The purpose of this paper is to investigate whether business strategy influences strategic management accounting SMA usage Business strategy has been operationalized through strategic pattern mission and positioning Design methodology approach The study is based on an internet questionnaire survey of Italian companies Multiple regression analysis is used to test the impact of strategic variables pattern mission and positioning on SMA usage Company size is included as control variable Findings Several SMA techniques appear to be used in Italian companies as they are in other countries investigated in different studies Customer Accounting Competitive Position Monitoring Competitor performance appraisal based on published financial statement and Quality Costing represent the most widely used SMA techniques in the Italian sample From the regression analysis both defender type and cost leader type of strategy are found to be more willing to use SMA techniques addressing cost information Research limitations implications The issue common in contingent research of business strategy definition and operationalization constitutes the main limitation of the paper in an attempt to restrict its effect we use three strategic typologies pattern mission and positioning and employ a measurement method used in previous studies A second issue concerns the definition of SMA techniques There is no concurred list of SMA techniques in the literature and further discussion is expected in the future Originality value Firstly empirical evidence is provided to a field SMA where empirical research is needed in order to be comparable with traditional management accounting techniques Secondly for the first time in SMA studies a framework is employed that considers all of the three main strategic variables pattern mission and positioning used in management accounting literature As a result the loose coupling between SMA techniques and business strategy typologies indicates with the possible exception of cost related SMA techniques that the same SMA technique can support different strategic approaches of the company
