Turning The Tide Urbed:

Making Sense of Place Ian Convery, Gerard Corsane, Peter Davis, 2014 Essays dealing with the question of how sense of place is constructed in a variety of locations and media The term sense of place is an important multidisciplinary concept used to understand the complex processes through which individuals and groups define themselves and their relationship to their natural and cultural environments and which over the last twenty years or so has been increasingly defined theorized and used across diverse disciplines in different ways Sense of place mediates our relationship with the world and with each other it provides a profoundly important foundation for individual and community identity It can be an intimate deeply personal experience yet also something which we share with others It is at once recognizable but never constant rather it is embodied in the flux between familiarity and difference Research in this area requires culturally and geographically nuanced analyses approaches that are sensitive to difference and specificity event and locale The essays collected here drawn from a variety of disciplines including but not limited to sociology history geography outdoor education museum and heritage studies health and English literature offer an international perspective on the relationship between people and place via five interlinked sections Histories Landscapes and Identities Rural Sense of Place Urban Sense of Place Cultural Landscapes Conservation Biodiversity and Tourism Ian Convery is Reader in Conservation and Forestry National School of Forestry University of Cumbria Gerard Corsane is Senior Lecturer in Heritage Museum and Galley Studies International Centre for Cultural and Heritage Studies Newcastle University Peter Davis is Professor of Museology International Centre for Cultural and Heritage Studies Newcastle University Contributors Doreen Massey Ian Convery Gerard Corsane Peter Davis David Storey Mark Haywood Penny Bradshaw Vincent O'Brien Michael Woods Jesse Heley Carol Richards Suzie Watkin Lois Mansfield Kenesh Djusipov Tamara Kudaibergenova Jennifer Rogers Eunice Simmons Andrew Weatherall Amanda Bingley Michael Clark Rhiannon Mason Chris Whitehead Helen Graham Christopher Hartworth Joanne Hartworth Ian Thompson Paul Cammack Philippe Dub Josie Baxter Maggie Roe Lyn Leader Elliott John Studley Stephanie K Hawke D Jared Bowers Mark Toogood Owen T Nevin Peter Swain Rachel M Dunk Mary Ann Smyth Lisa J Gibson Stefaan Dondeyne Randi Kaarhus Gaia Allison Ellie Lindsay Andrew Ramsay

Industrial Buildings Michael Stratton, 2003-09-02 This book gives guidance as to the types of building stock offering greatest potential for conversion that are likely to be viable and sustainable Chapters are contributed by key experts in the field

Waterfront Regeneration Harry C. Smith, Maria Soledad Garcia Ferrari, 2012 Waterfront Regeneration presents a framework to help understand the complexity of waterfront redevelopment as city building It uses this framework to examine how several cities around the North Sea have been experimenting with different approaches to waterfront regeneration over the last decade The book explores how resources regulations and ideas have influenced the redevelopment of these waterfront areas through the creation of new design and development processes the participation of different stakeholders including planners urban designers and architects politicians developers landowners and community groups and the experimentation with innovative design approaches particularly in relation to public spaces The book also offers some reflection on future trends and priorities in waterfront regeneration and redevelopment around the North Sea and worldwide

Urban Regeneration Jim Berry, Stanley McGreal, Bill Deddis, 1993 This book by adopting a property perspective seeks to evaluate linkages between urban regeneration and the development investment processes The risk element in major development schemes can be high to both financiers and developers and the cushioning of risk and more effective public private sector partnerships are likely to set the agenda for regeneration mechanisms in Europe throughout the 1990s In considering property investment and development this book appraises existing initiatives mechanisms and approaches to urban hierarchy Only by evaluating current practice can a better understanding of the factors including market behaviour and the impact of policy directions be assessed The opening of the book focuses upon the private sector market forces the role of the financial institutions and international property portfolios Emphasis in the second part is placed upon the integration of regeneration local economic development and specifically the role of the public sector Key issues include the impact of policy directions and the ability of government to lever private sector monies and act as a facilitator of regeneration by creating the opportunity for development Finally the book concentrates on an evaluation of key regeneration mechanisms entailing public private partnerships enterprise zones urban development corporations regeneration trusts and projects The editors of the book through their specialist interest in planning urban economic development property investment and performance possess considerable research expertise in the evaluation of urban regeneration initiatives Research has been conducted at international national and local levels focusing upon different practices mechanisms and policies involving commissioned work for public and private sector agencies

Building the 21st Century Home David Rudlin, Nicholas Falk, 1999 The book reviews the way that planning policies architectural trends and economic forces have undermined the viability of urban areas in Britain since the Industrial Revolution Now that much post war planning philosophy is being discredited we are left with few urban models other than garden city inspired suburbia Are these appropriate in the 21st century given environmental concerns demographic change social and economic pressures The authors suggest that these trends point to a very different urban future If the 19th century home was the terrace and the 20th century was the suburban semi what will be the 21st century home In the 21st century it is likely that a change will take place in the way that we build our towns and cities as dramatic as that brought about by the garden city pioneers a hundred years ago Change should not however be brought about by regulation or by forcing people against their will to return to towns and cities. Instead, this book argues that we must reform our towns and cities so that they become attractive, humane places where people will choose to live. The Sustainable Urban Neighbourhood is a model for such reform, and the book describes what this would look like and how it might be brought about.

David Rudlin, BA MTP, and Dr Nicholas Falk, MBA, are directors of URBED, The Urban and Economic Development Group, a not-for-profit consultancy which has been working since 1976 to devise practical solutions to the problems of urban areas. They were responsible for the 21st Century Homes Building to Last report for the Joseph Rowntree Foundation, which first developed the notion of the Sustainable Urban Neighbourhood. David Rudlin is a town planner and urban designer and has been closely involved in the redevelopment of the Hulme. He was also a member of an advisory panel responsible for drawing up the Manchester Guide to Development. Nicholas Falk is an economist and strategic planner who formerly worked for the Ford Motor Company before establishing URBED in 1976. He has written and lectured widely on urban issues and was the principle author of Vital and Viable Town Centres: Meeting the Challenge for the Department of the Environment. Explore how to combine social, environmental, and economic thinking with urban design. Benefit from Rudlin and Falk's expertise in urban planning and development.

Journal of the Royal Society of Arts, 1984 European Port Cities in Transition. B. S. Hoyle, David Pinder, 1992-10-13. Adopted as the official publication of the British Association for the Advancement of Science, it presents a systematic analytical research-based appraisal of the structure, operation, and future of the great port cities in Europe. Studies modern alternatives to traditional functions, business adaptations of waterfront areas, environmental and economic issues.

Vital and Viable Town Centres. Great Britain. Department of the Environment, URBED (Urban and Economic Development) Ltd, 1994. The planning research programme set out to help local authorities improve towns and deal with out-of-town planning applications. This report provides techniques for assessing performance and devising town centre strategies and puts forward good practice guidelines.

Congressional Record. United States. Congress, 1972 Resurgence, 1985 Why France Collapsed. Guy Chapman, 1968. The history of the conquest of Gaul, it has been said, would be far more obscure if twenty of Caesar's generals had written commentaries. In June 1940, the armies of France, Great Britain, and Belgium succumbed to the onslaught of the German armies in less than six weeks How this could have come about has hardly been illuminated by the accusations and counter accusations of prominent French politicians and senior officers The crossfire of charges is as blinding as a hailstorm This book is a bold attempt to clarify responsibilities and to answer the question of how an army not greatly inferior to the enemy s and only ten years before believed to be the strongest in Europe met such an ignominious defeat First it tells the story of the reconstitution of the army after 1919 and of the French defence preparations It shows the chiefs of staff lack of imagination how dull were their analyses of the recent war how blind they were to the outside world how negligent of such matters as the increase in speeds and range of armaments how incurious as to their enemies and how subservient to the politicians who courted an electorate which loathed war but was not ready to pay for peace while an out of date armament industry existed on high protective tariffs In 1939 France had an army and an air force trained for defeat
