

Plans for Reconstruction

After the Civil War, many Americans believed that Reconstruction should be a process of difficulty in restoring the South to its former status. A plan for Reconstruction was drafted by a group of influential men. These different proposals were called Reconstruction Plans. The first plan was the Wade-Davis Bill, which called for a Southern state to be readmitted to the Union only if it met certain conditions. The Wade-Davis Bill was rejected by the House of Representatives.

The Reconstruction Amendments

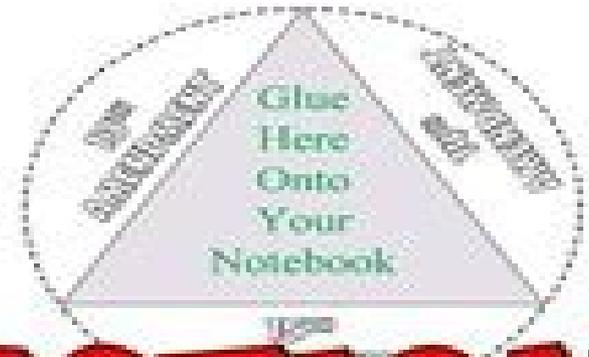

Between 1865 and 1870, three amendments to the Constitution were ratified, which would become known as the Reconstruction Amendments. Numerically, they are the 13th, 14th, and 15th Amendments, which gave equal rights to the formerly enslaved people. The 13th Amendment abolished slavery, the 14th Amendment granted citizenship to all persons born or naturalized in the United States, and the 15th Amendment prohibited denying the right to vote on the basis of race.

The 13th Amendment passed in Congress on January 31, 1865, a few months before President Lincoln was assassinated. It was first formally ratified on December 6 of that year. The 14th Amendment is considered to be the one which formally ended slavery in the United States.
