Miller address this question by exploring the attitudes and perceptions of the general public and law professionals in five European countries England Norway Bulgaria Poland and the Ukraine Presenting new findings they challenge the established view that ordinary citizens and people working professionally with the law have different legal cultures Their research in fact reveals that the attitudes of citizens in Eastern and Western Europe towards law in principle are remarkably similar whereas perceptions of law in practice differ by country and often correlate with GDP per capita and country ranking in rule of law indices Grødeland and Miller's innovative methodological approach will appeal to both experts and non experts with an interest in legal culture European integration or European elite and public opinion
