Designing For The Disabled:

Designing for the Disabled: The New Paradigm Selwyn Goldsmith, 2012-09-10 Selwyn Goldsmith's Designing for the Disabled has since it was first published in 1963 been a bible for practising architects around the world. Now as a new book with a radical new vision comes his Designing for the Disabled: The New Paradigm. Goldsmith's new paradigm is based on the concept of architectural disability. As a version of the social model of disability it is not exclusively the property of physically disabled people. Others who are afflicted by it include women since men customarily get proportionately four times as many amenities in public toilets as women and women have to queue where men do not and those with infants in pushchairs because normal WC facilities are invariably too small to get a pushchair and infant into. To counter architectural disability Goldsmith's line is that the axiom for legislation action has to be access for everyone it should not just be access for the disabled as it presently is with the Part M building regulation and relevant provisions of the 1995 Disability Discrimination Act. In a 40 page annex to his book he sets out the terms that a new style Part M regulation and its Approved Document might take one that would cover alterations to existing buildings as well as new buildings. But architects and building control officers need not he says wait for new a legislation to apply new practical procedures to meet the requirements of the current Part M regulation they can as he advises act positively now. This is a book which will oblige architects to rethink the methodology of designing for the disabled. It is a book that no practising architect, building control officer, local planning officer or access officer can afford to be without. Designing for the Disabled, 2011 Designing for the disabled, 1963

Universal Design Selwyn Goldsmith, 2000 This guide is designed to better enable architects to respond positively constructively and appropriately to the requirements of building regulations. Principle methodology is the main aspect explored. Designing for the Disabled Selwyn Goldsmith, 1967 Manual on ergonomics in architecture designed to encourage consideration of the needs of the handicapped, disabled person and disabled in the planning of buildings etc. Covers housing, schools, public buildings, transport vehicles etc and includes cost implications of selected recommendations. Bibliography pp 193 to 201. Designing for the Disabled. Third Edition S. Goldsmith, 1976 Designing Disability Elizabeth Guffey, 2017-12-28 Designing Disability traces the emergence of an idea and an ideal physical access for the disabled through the evolution of the iconic International Symbol of Access (ISA). The book draws on design history, material culture and recent critical disability studies to examine not only the development of a design icon but also the cultural history surrounding it. Infirmity and illness may be seen as part of human experience but disability is a social construct, a way of thinking about and responding to a natural human condition. Elizabeth Guffey's highly original and wide ranging study considers the period both before and after the introduction of the ISA, tracing the design history of the wheelchair, a product which revolutionised the mobility needs of many disabled people from the 1930s onwards. She also examines the rise of barrier free architecture in the reception of the ISA and explores how the symbol became widely adopted and even a mark of identity for some especially within the Disability Rights Movement Yet despite the social progress which is inextricably linked to the ISA a growing debate has unfurled around the symbol and its meanings The most vigorous critiques today have involved guerrilla art graffiti and studio practice reflecting new challenges to the relationship between design and disability in the twenty first century

Designing for the Disabled S. Goldsmith,1976 Making Disability Modern Bess Williamson,Elizabeth Guffey,2020-07-23 Making Disability Modern Design Histories brings together leading scholars from a range of disciplinary and national perspectives to examine how designed objects and spaces contributes to the meanings of ability and disability from the late 18th century to the present day and in homes offices and schools to realms of national and international politics The contributors reveal the social role of objects particularly those designed for use by people with disabilities such as walking sticks wheelchairs and prosthetic limbs and consider the active role that makers users and designers take to reshape the material environment into a usable world But it also aims to make clear that definitions of disability and ability are often shaped by design
