Handbook of Research on Innovations in Non-Traditional Educational Practices Keengwe, Jared,2020-12-11 While many school districts and institutions of higher education still cling to the traditional agrarian school year with a factory model delivery of education and Carnegie units based on seat time when most people are no longer farmers factory workers or reliant on learning in a classroom there are bursts of promising practices that buck the norm by questioning the educational value of these traditions Though researchers have investigated the potential of students learning in their own homes via personalized instruction delivered by computers rather than attending traditional institutions the status quo in education has remained stubbornly resistant to change Mixed reality simulations year round schooling grouping students by competencies instead of age and game based teaching are just a few of the educational innovations that seek to maximize learning by recognizing that innovation is essential for successfully teaching students in the modern era The Handbook of Research on Innovations in Non Traditional Educational Practices is a comprehensive reference source that examines various educational innovations how they have developed workarounds to navigate traditional systems and their potential to radically transform teaching and learning With each chapter highlighting a different educational innovation such as experiential learning game based learning online learning and inquiry based learning and their applications in all levels of education this book explores the issues and challenges these educational innovations face as well as their impact It is intended for academicians professionals administrators and researchers in education and specifically benefits academic deans vice presidents of academic affairs graduate students faculty technology leaders directors of teaching and learning centers curriculum and instructional designers policymakers principals and superintendents and teachers interested in educational change

Integrating Work in Theological Education Kathleen A. Cahalan,Edward Foley,Gordon S. Mikoski,2017-03-09 If only we could do a better job of helping students at connecting the dots theological educators commonly lament Integration often proposed as a solution to the woes of professional education for ministry would help students integrate knowledge skills spirituality and integrity When these remain disconnected incompetence ensues and the cost runs high for churches denominations and ministers themselves However we fail in thinking that integrating work is for students alone It is a multifaceted constructive process of learning that is contextual reflective and dialogical It aims toward important ends competent leaders who can guide Christian communities today It entails rhythms not stages and dynamic movement including disintegration Integrating work is learning in motion across domains and among and between persons It is social and communal born of a life of learning together for faculty staff administrators and students It is work that bridges the long standing gaps between school ministry practice and life It s a verb not a noun Here a diverse group of theological educators through descriptive case studies theological reflection and theory building offer a distinctive contribution to understanding integrating work and how best to achieve it across three domains in community curriculums and courses

Resistance to Belief Change Joseph R. Lao,Jason Young,2019-09-30 This book examines the human proclivity to resist changing our beliefs Drawing on psychological neurological and philosophical research and integrating topics as wide ranging as emotion cognition social and physical context and learning theory Lao and Young explore why this resistance to change impedes our learning and progression They also suggest that failure to adapt our beliefs to available and informed evidence can incur costs that may be seen in personal growth politics science law medicine education and business Resistance to Belief Change explores the various manifestations of resistance including overt discursive and especially inertial forms of resistance As well as the influential factors that can impact upon them the book also examines how the self directed learner as well as teachers may structure the learning experience to overcome resistance and facilitate progressive and adaptive learning Lao and Young find that the impediments to learning and resistance to change are far more prevalent and costly than previously suggested in research and so this book will be of interest to a range of people in cognitive development social psychology and clinical and educational psychology A Handbook for Instructors of Educational Psychology American Psychological Association. Division of Educational Psychology,University of Illinois (Urbana-Champaign campus). College of Education,1965 Teaching Motivation for Student Engagement Debra K. Meyer,Alyssa Emery,2021-04-06 This volume helps teachers understand and apply motivational theories offering frameworks and real world examples It emphasizes the importance of modeling practice feedback and situational motivation addressing instructional practices for cultural relevance equity and developmental appropriateness Educational Times ,1886
