The Post-Election Violence in Kenya Sosteness Francis Materu,2014-12-04 Since the historic Nuremberg Trial of 1945 an international customary law principle has developed that commission of a core crime under international law war crimes genocide crimes against humanity and aggression should not go unpunished History shows that when in Africa such violations occurred especially as a result of election disputes national and regional actors including the African Union resorted to political rather than legal responses However when crimes against humanity were alleged to have been committed in Kenya during the 2007 2008 post election violence a promising road map for criminal accountability was agreed upon alongside a political solution In the spirit of this road map the author analyzes the post election violence in Kenya from a legal point of view He extensively examines legal options for domestic criminal accountability and discusses both retributive prosecutions and restorative justice mainly truth commission mechanisms being the main legal responses to the gross violations of human rights Furthermore he thoroughly investigates the Kenya situation before the ICC and the legal cum political responses to the ICC intervention in Kenya Practitioners and academics in the field of international criminal law and related disciplines as well as political sciences and legal history will find in this book highly relevant information about alternative legal approaches of the fight against and punishment of crimes against humanity as defined under the ICC Statute

Corruption and Illegality in Asian Investment Arbitration Nobumichi Teramura,Luke Nottage,Bruno Jetin,2024-04-19 This open access book explores Asian approaches

towards investment arbitration a transnational procedure to resolve disputes between a foreign investor and a host state setting it in the wider political economy and within domestic law contexts It considers the extent to which significant states in Asia are or could become rule makers rather than rule takers regarding corruption and serious illegality in investor state arbitration Corruption and illegality in international investment are widely condemned in any society but there remains a lack of consensus on the consequences especially in investment arbitration A core issue addressed is whether a foreign investor violating a host state s law should be awarded protection of its investment as per its contract with the host state and or the applicable investment or trade agreement between the home state and the host state Some suggest such protection would be unnecessary as the investor committed a crime in the host state while others attempt to establish an equilibrium between the investor and the host state Others claim to protect investment invoking the sanctity of promises made The book starts with a deep dive into economic and legal issues in corruption and investment arbitration and then explores the situation and issues in major countries in the region in detail It is a useful reference point for lawyers economists investors and government officials who are seeking comprehensive and up to date information on anti bribery rules in Asian investment treaties It is of particular interest to students and researchers in economics finance and law who are undertaking new research relating to the multifaceted impacts of corruption
