

SOCIAL MEDIA LITERACY

WHAT AND WHERE ARE MIDDLE SCHOOLERS LEARNING ABOUT SOCIAL MEDIA?

In a mixed method study, we surveyed 229 school staff members and 419 parents from 4 school districts in the Northeast and interviewed 30 parents and 6 school staff members.

Most frequently discussed topics amongst educators:

49% of educators discussed how student technology use interferes with sleep

46% of educators discussed students craving constant access to devices

43% of educators discussed considering how online posts affect others

Most frequently discussed topics amongst parents:

With 92% of parents reporting discussing stranger danger, it was the most popular topic from our survey

90% of parents discuss cyberbullying and mean online behaviors

85% of parents warned their children of being influenced by peer-induced risky behaviors online (vaping, skipping school, alcohol, etc.)

FINDINGS

- Educators focused on the prevention of their students being victimized by their own addictive and self-regulatory behaviors while parents focused more on preventing their teens from unsafe or risk-taking online peer influences.
- The fact that educators and parents focus on different aspects of the digital wellbeing of the child could be turned into a strength of a home-school partnership that is not competing but complementary with one another.

Concentrating on contemporary life texts found in the material book, museums, on social media, and in archives that present perceptions of individuality and autonomy, Reading Mediated Life Narratives exposes the traces of personal, cultural, technological, and political mediation that must be considered when developing reading strategies for such life narratives. Amy Carlson asks such questions as: what agents act upon these narratives? what do the text, the creator, and the audience gain, and what do they lose? how do constantly evolving technologies shape or stymie the auto-biographical 'I' and finally, how do the mediations affect larger issues of social and collective memory? An examination of the range of sites at which vulnerability and intervention can occur, Carlson does not condemn but stages an intercession, showing us how it is increasingly necessary to register mediated agents and processes modifying the witnessing or recuperation of original texts that could condition our reception With careful thought on how we remember how we create and control our pictures voices words and records Reading Mediated Life Narratives reveals how we construct and negotiate our social identities and memories but also what systems control us
