

The background of the cover is a photograph of two astronauts in white space suits working on the exterior of a space station. They are positioned in the upper half of the frame, with one astronaut appearing to be in a more horizontal position and the other slightly below and to the right. The station's structure, including various panels and equipment, is visible. The lower half of the image shows the Earth's horizon with a blue atmosphere and white clouds, set against the blackness of space. The overall scene is brightly lit, likely by the sun, creating high contrast and highlighting the metallic surfaces of the station and the white of the suits.
