British Population Moves to the Cities

Directions: Read the paragraphs below and study the maps and graph carefully. Then answer the questions that follow.

Britain's richest coal fields are in the central and northern regions of the country. This geographic fact caused a major shift in Britain's population between 1750 and 1850.

Coal was found to be the most efficient way to power the new steam engine. As a result, many new industries and factories moved to be near the sources of energy. Soon, coal-fired steam engines powered the iron foundries, textile factories, and railroads of northern Britain.

Industrialization also required a large labor force. The enclosure movement, in which wealthy landowners bought out small farms and forced these people out of their livelihood, provided a ready supply of workers. As a result, masses of people moved to the industrial cities to find jobs.

Sport in Capitalist Society Tony Collins, 2013-04-12 Why are the Olympic Games the driving force behind a clampdown on civil liberties What makes sport an unwavering ally of nationalism and militarism Is sport the new opiate of the masses These and many other questions are answered in this new radical history of sport by leading historian of sport and society Professor Tony Collins Tracing the history of modern sport from its origins in the burgeoning capitalist economy of mid eighteenth century England to the globalised corporate sport of today the book argues that far from the purity of sport being corrupted by capitalism modern sport is as much a product of capitalism as the factory the stock exchange and the unemployment line Based on original sources the book explains how sport has been shaped and moulded by the major political and economic events of the past two centuries such as the French Revolution the rise of modern nationalism and imperialism the Russian Revolution the Cold War and the imposition of the neo liberal agenda in the last decades of the twentieth century It highlights the symbiotic relationship between the media and sport from the simultaneous emergence of print capitalism and modern sport in Georgian England to the rise of Murdoch's global satellite television empire in the twenty first century and for the first time it explores the alternative revolutionary models of sport in the early twentieth century Sport in a Capitalist Society is the first sustained attempt to explain the emergence of modern sport around the world as an integral part of the globalisation of capitalism It is essential reading for anybody with an interest in the history or sociology of sport or the social and cultural history of the modern world A retailing one of the most important and dynamic sectors of the British economy in the last twenty years It has had an irreversible impact on our towns and cities and for many people transformed shopping from an unattractive domestic chore to a pleasurable leisure experience offering consumers an everchanging array of disposable dreams The resulting retail culture is everywhere it has colonised huge areas of our social life outside the traditional high street from sporting venues to arts centres from railway termini to museums Many see it as the epitome of Thatcher s Britain breeding acquisitive individualism and destroying our traditional manufacturing base Others see it as a potential saviour of an ailing economy Yet to date there has been no thorough analysis of this all pervasive phenomenon from its economic roots to its profound social effects In Consuming Passion Carl Gardner and Julie Sheppard have written the first overall study of the retail revolution a controversial and hard hitting look at where retailing has come from what it has achieved and where it is going Key issues such as the role of design the growth of the supermarket and shopping centre and the poor conditions of retail employment are all minutely examined The book also discusses the very real pleasures that consumers gain from today s enhanced shopping experience The authors take an iconoclastic look at some of the powerful myths that have sprung up around retail the death of the high street scenario the central role of credit retailing as a major creator of employment and the imminent possibility of retail saturation A fascinating book for everyone who likes shopping and even those who hate it First published
