Mothers, Warriors, Guardians of the Soul Geraldine Horan, 2003 This study shows that women involved in National Socialism in the years 1924-1934 developed and shaped a recognizable discourse which communicated and reflected their position and status within the NS movement The analysis is based on a variety of text types produced by members of NS women's organisations and includes official correspondence circulars reports pamphlets monographs and articles from NS women's journals It draws upon several areas of linguistic theory including feminist linguistics semantics pragmatics and discourse analysis and the salient features identified in the female discourse are placed within a sociolinguistic framework While previous research into the language of the NS system has largely ignored the possibility of a cohesive female discourse the study supports the idea that this discourse was dynamic and at times heterogeneous whilst also displaying many self defining and self referential features It is characterised by its ambiguities and apparent contradictions which expresses separateness and difference yet also solidarity with the NSDAP

Discourse Markers in Early Koine Greek Christopher J. Fresch, 2023-07-07 Using a cognitive functional linguistic framework and cross linguistic research on discourse markers Christopher J. Fresch investigates the use of five discourse markers in the documentary papyri of the third to first centuries BCE and the Greek translations of the Hebrew Bible Through this analysis Fresch proposes linguistically grounded descriptions for how each discourse marker uniquely functions to guide readers in how they process and comprehend the text Based on these descriptions he examines the instances of these discourse markers in the Greek translation of the Minor Prophets and how the translator used them to render the Hebrew text Fresch presents a picture of a translator who selected discourse markers based on their own understanding of the structure flow and meaning of the underlying Hebrew text Their use attests to a translator who was contextually aware and who desired to produce a translation in idiomatic Koine
