Making the Miscellany Megan Heffernan,2021-03-05 In Making the Miscellany Megan Heffernan examines the poetic design of early modern printed books and explores how volumes of compiled poems which have always existed in practice responded to media change in sixteenth and seventeenth century England Heffernan s focus is not only the material organization of printed poetry but also how those conventions and innovations of arrangement contributed to vernacular poetic craft the consolidation of ideals of individual authorship and centuries of literary history The arrangement of printed compilations contains a largely unstudied and undertheorized archive of poetic form Heffernan argues In an evolving system of textual transmission compilers were experimenting with how to contain individual poems within larger volumes By paying attention to how they navigated and shaped the exchanges between poems and their organization she reveals how we can witness the basic power of imaginative writing over the material text Making the Miscellany is also a study of how this history of textual design has been differently told by the distinct disciplines of bibliography or book history and literary studies each of which has handled and obscured the formal qualities of early modern poetry compilations and the practices that produced them

Revisiting these editorial and critical approaches this book recovers a moment when compilers poets and readers were alert to a poetics of organization that exceeded the limits of the individual poem Signs of the Hidden Susan W.

Tiefenbrun,2023-08-21 Literary Sentiments in the Vernacular Charu Gupta,Laura Brueck,Hans Harder,Shobna Nijhawan,2021-12-14 This collection brings together nine essays accompanied by nine short translations that expand the assumptions that have typically framed literary histories and creatively re draws their boundaries both temporally and spatially The essays rooted in the humanities and informed by interdisciplinary area studies explore multiple linkages between forms of print culture linguistic identities and diverse vernacular literary spaces in colonial and post colonial South Asia The accompanying translations from Bengali Hindi Marathi Tamil and Urdu not only round out these scholarly explorations and comparisons but invite readers to recognise the assiduous intimate and critical labour of expanding access to the vernacular archive while also engaging with the challenges linguistic cultural and political of rendering vernacular articulations of gendered experience and embodiment in English Collectively the essays and translations foreground complex and politicised expressions of gender and genre in fictional and non fictional print materials and thus draw meaningful connections between the vernacular and literature the everyday and the marginals and gender and sentiment They expand vernacular literary archives canons and genealogies and push us to theorise the nature of writing in South Asia Literary Sentiments in the Vernacular is a significant new contribution to South Asian literary history and gender studies and will be a great resource for academics researchers and advanced students of History Literature Cultural Studies Politics and Sociology The chapters in this book were originally published as a special issue of South Asia Journal of South Asian Studies
