Problems with Dress Code in Schools

"I felt violated in front of my peers. I was called out, and it was taking time from my education" ("Shame: A Documentary"). "It made me feel embarrassed and ashamed" ("Shame: A Documentary"). These are quotes from students at Woodford County High School who created a documentary called Shame to share their opinions on how harmful dress codes can be on a person's emotions. There must no longer be a dress code in schools. The codes are a problem because they do not protect children. Not only that, but also boys are not allowed to dress in female attire, the dress codes are inconsistent, and girls are targeted and sexualized. It is common for school administrators and teachers to believe if there is not a dress code, students will come to school without enough clothing, and/or they will be a distraction to other students. What these administrators do not understand is these problems would not exist if students were able to adjust to no longer "shut-shaming" and judging other students based solely on their attire. The most shocking, yet exceptional solution to these problems is to diminish the dress code all together.

Dress codes do absolutely nothing to protect children and their learning environment. The rules set a "social norm" and cause students to lose their self expression and individuality. In Colorado a third-grader was suspended after shaving her head to show support for a friend battling cancer because she had violated her school's dress code banning shaved heads (Hoewel, 1). In 2013, 5-year-old Cooper Barton from Oklahoma City was told to turn his University of
