Have all those student loan horror stories made you wary of going into debt for an education? Graduating from high school should be an exciting time. You're finally done with this chapter in your life and are ready to take on new and more challenging opportunities as you move toward adulthood and independence. But it's also a time when you feel the pressure to make a decision: pick a major, choose a school, figure out your career path. With so many options to choose from, this can be a paralyzing process. Choosing one option may mean you're closing the door to better ones. What if you make the wrong choice? Even more with the cost of college tuition averaging tens of thousands of dollars, it may seem like you're doomed to start your career already burdened by student debt. Student debt is not only a financial burden you could be carrying around for the next 10 to 20 years; it could also impede major life decisions and negatively affect your mental health and overall quality of life. But the good news is a college degree and student debt aren't your only options. You can still get access to valuable training and practical experience that will set you up for a flourishing career without having to enter your working life in debt.
