What Can Behavioral Economics Teach Us about Teaching Economics? Supriya

Sarnikar,2015-11-19 Sarnikar cites evidence of frequent misconceptions of economics amongst students graduates and even some economists and argues that behavioral economists are uniquely qualified to investigate causes of poor learning in economics She conducts a review of the economics education literature to identify gaps in current research efforts and suggests a two pronged approach to fill the gaps an engineering approach to the adoption of innovative teaching methods and a new research program to enhance economists understanding of how learning occurs To facilitate research into learning processes Sarnikar provides an overview of selected learning theories from psychology as well as new data on hidden misconceptions amongst beginning students of economics She argues that if they ask the right questions economists of all persuasions are likely to find surprising lessons in the answers of beginning students of economics

Entrepreneurs and SMEs in Rwanda David L. Poole,2021-01-28 Entrepreneurs and Small and Medium sized Enterprises SMEs have become the darlings of neoliberal development thinking with the received wisdom being that such enterprises hold the key to the economic transformation of low income countries This thinking has profoundly influenced development policy in Rwanda but has singularly failed to deliver the much anticipated emergence of a new class of entrepreneurs and a vibrant SME sector This book deconstructs the myths around entrepreneurship and SMEs and reveals how neoliberal approaches towards microcredit and related programmes have failed to address the economic challenges facing countries like Rwanda Drawing on his study of successful and aspiring entrepreneurs Poole identifies the factors associated with successful entrepreneurship
