Adapting for Inertia Grant Douglas, 2023-10-31. Despite much learning and research over many decades large ICT software projects have continued to experience poor outcomes or fallen short of original expectations some spectacularly so. This is the case in the Australian and New Zealand public sectors even though these projects operate within historically developed institutional frameworks that provide the rules guidelines and controls and aim to consistently improve outcomes. Something is amiss. In Adapting for Inertia Grant Douglas questions the effectiveness of these institutional frameworks in governing large ICT software projects in the Australian and New Zealand public sectors. He also gauges the perspectives of a large number of actors in projects in both sectors and examines two case studies in detail. The main narrative to emerge is that the institutional frameworks are in a state of inertia they are failing to adapt owing to various institutional factors all of which have public policy implications. Sadly Douglas finds this inertia is likely to continue. If there is difficulty in changing the capacity to govern he proposes policymakers should look to change the nature of what is to be governed.

The Software Craftsman Sandro Mancuso, 2014-12-12 Be a Better Developer and Deliver Better Code. Despite advanced tools and methodologies, software projects continue to fail. Why? Too many organizations still view software development as just another production line. Too many developers feel that way too, and they behave accordingly. In The Software Craftsman, Professionalism, Pragmatism, Pride, Sandro Mancuso offers a better and more fulfilling path. If you want to develop software with pride and professionalism, love what you do and do it with excellence, and build a career with autonomy, mastery, and purpose, it starts with the recognition that you are a craftsman. Once you embrace this powerful mindset, you can achieve unprecedented levels of technical excellence and customer satisfaction. Mancuso helped found the world's largest organization of software craftsmen; now he shares what he's learned through inspiring examples and pragmatic advice you can use in your company, your projects, and your career. You will learn why agile processes aren't enough and why craftsmanship is crucial to making them work. How craftsmanship helps you build software right and helps clients in ways that go beyond code. How and when to say No, and how to provide creative alternatives when you do. Why bad code happens to good developers and how to stop creating and justifying it. How to make working with legacy code less painful and more productive. How to be pragmatic, not dogmatic, about your practices and tools. How to lead software craftsmen and attract them to your organization. What to avoid when advertising positions, interviewing candidates, and hiring developers. How developers and their managers can create a true culture of learning. How to drive true technical change and overcome deep patterns of skepticism. Sandro Mancuso has coded for startups, software houses, product companies, international consultancies, and investment banks. In October 2013, he cofounded Codurance, a consultancy based on Software Craftsmanship principles and values. His involvement with Software Craftsmanship began in 2010 when he founded the London Software Craftsmanship Community (LSCC), now the world's largest and most active Software Craftsmanship community with more than two thousand craftsmen. For the past four years, he has inspired and helped developers to organize Software Craftsmanship communities throughout Europe, the United States, and the rest of the world.
