

Introduction to Music Theory

This pdf is a good starting point for those who are unfamiliar with some of the key concepts of music theory.

Reading musical notation

Musical notation (also called a score) is a visual representation of the pitched notes heard in a piece of music represented by dots over a set of horizontal staves. In the top example the symbol to the left of the notes is called a treble clef and in the bottom example is called a bass clef.

People often like to use a mnemonic to help remember the order of notes on each clef, here is an example.

Intervals

An interval is the difference in pitch between two notes as defined by the distance between the two notes. The easiest way to visualise this distance is by thinking of the notes on a piano keyboard. For example, on a C major scale, the interval from C to E is a 3rd and the interval from C to G is a 5th. Click here for some more interval examples.

It is also common for an increase by one interval to be called a half-step, or semi-tone, and an increase by two intervals to be called a whole step, or tone.
