Simulation: Ionic and Covalent Bonding

Background

In this investigation you will bond select atoms. Based upon the types of atoms that you choose to combine, you will create either an ionic compound or a covalent compound. You will have the opportunity to analyze the differences between these different types of compounds and to predict the number of atoms needed to create each, as well as learn how to appropriately name them.

1. Describe the difference between an atom and a molecule:

Atoms are single particles, and molecules are made up of multiple atoms

2. Where are metal atoms located on the periodic table? Where are non-metal atoms located on the periodic table?

Metals are on the left side and non-metals are on the right

3. What subatomic particle(s) participate in chemical bonding?

electron

4. In your own words, define valence electron.

electrons on outside ring which allow for bonding, negative charge

5. How can you determine the number of valence electrons in an atom using the periodic table?

Look at the atomic #

6. Draw a Lewis Dot Structure for the following atoms:

The Zinc and Iodine Book Stephen DeMeo, 2019-05-15 This book is for chemistry teachers who are thinking about reinventing their laboratory experiments that they provide to their students More than a collection of experiments it is an example of using a chemical theme to teach chemistry Instead of introducing many different chemicals per experiment as is the norm in most lab manuals this novel resource focuses on two commonly found elements Zinc and Iodine So what is so special about these elements At the heart of this resource is a colorful cyclic reaction between zinc and iodine one that produces a compound that can decompose back to its original elements This unique phenomenon demonstrates that matter not only changes but is also conserved through a chemical reaction Knowing that a compound can be the same but different than the reactants that formed it is to understand the essence of chemical change Complementing this reaction this book contains experimental activities that utilize the zinc and iodine theme to scaffold new concepts such as the properties of matter solid and gas stoichiometry equilibrium kinetics acid base chemistry and electrochemistry This teacher tested resource focuses on a set of safe substances that are appropriate for high school teachers who provide an advanced chemistry placement course and for college instructors teaching a first year chemistry laboratory sequence
