Why We Need A New Welfare State:

Why We Need a New Welfare State Gøsta Esping-Andersen, Duncan Gallie, Anton Hemerijck, John Myles, 2002-08-22
Leading scholars in the field examine the highly topical issue of the future of the welfare state in Europe. They argue that welfare states need to adjust and examine which kind of welfare architecture will further Europe's stated goal of maximum social inclusion and justice. The volume concentrates on four principal social policy domains: the aged and transition to retirement; the welfare issues related to profound changes in working life; the new risks and needs that arise in households and especially in child families; and the challenges of creating gender equality. The volume aims to promote a better understanding of the key welfare issues that will have to be faced in the coming decades. It also warns against the all too frequent recourse to patent policy solutions that have all too often characterized contemporary debate. It intends to move the policy debate from its often frustratingly vague and generic level towards greater specificity and nuance. Why We Need a New Welfare State Gøsta Esping-Andersen, 2002

Global Europe, Social Europe makes an essential contribution to the debate now opening up over the future of Europe in the wake of the demise of the Constitution. The Uses of Social Investment Anton Hemerijck, 2017-05-26. The Uses of Social Investment provides the first study of the welfare state under the new post-crisis austerity context and associated crisis management politics. It takes stock of the limits and potential of social investment. It surveys the emergence, diffusion, limits, merits, and politics of social investment as the welfare policy paradigm for the 21st century, seen through the lens of the life course contingencies of the competitive knowledge economy and modern familyhood. Featuring contributions from leading scholars in the field, the volume revisits the intellectual roots and normative foundations of social investment, surveys the criticisms that have leveled against the social investment perspective in theory and policy practice, and presents empirical evidence of social investment progress together with novel research methodologies for assessing socioeconomic rates of return on social investment. Given the progressive, admittedly uneven diffusion of the social investment policy priorities across the globe, the volume seeks to address the pressing political question as to whether the social investment turn is able to withstand the fiscal austerity backlash that has re-emerged in the aftermath of the global financial crisis. Working Mothers and the Welfare State Kimberly J. Morgan, 2006 This book explains why countries have adopted different policies for working parents through a comparative historical study of four nations France the Netherlands Sweden and the United States Dutch Welfare Reform in an Expanding Europe Abram de Swaan, Machteld Ooijens, 2004 The sustainability and architecture of today's European welfare states and social security systems are under pressure In addition to general trends such as individualization ageing and migration the very process of European integration and globalization drives welfare states to reform In this collection of essays five leading foreign welfare state experts reflect on the nature of the Dutch welfare state in a changing Europe Comparative commentary from abroad provides policy wisdom as well as illuminating asides about national debates These reflections from experts of neighboring countries Germany France the United Kingdom and Belgium and the United States focus on various aspects of the Dutch welfare state such as social security labor market policy health care and immigration and carry the intellectual discussion of a pressing political issue across borders In this way the book contributes to the political debate on the future of the welfare state in the European context It offers an interesting and provoking mosaic of the Dutch welfare state during the past two decades At the same time it reveals the important questions and dilemmas the Netherlands will have to cope with in the years to come The observations and insights enrich the debate about the future of social policy in the Netherlands and in the European Union as a whole

The Myth of Work-Life Balance Richenda Gambles, Suzan Lewis, Rhona Rapoport, 2006-04-24 Many regard the ways in which paid work can be combined or balanced with other parts of life as an individual concern and a small rather self indulgent problem in today's world Some feel that worrying about a lack of time or energy for family relationships or friendships is a luxury or secondary issue when compared with economic growth or development In the business world and among many Governments around the world the importance of paid work and the primacy of economic competitiveness whatever the personal costs is almost accepted wisdom Profits and short term efficiency gains are often placed before social issues of care or human dignity But what about the impact this has on men and women's well being or the long term sustainability of people families society or even the economy Drawing from interviews and group meetings in seven diverse countries India Japan the Netherlands Norway South Africa the UK and USA this book explores the multiple difficulties in combining paid work with other parts of life and the frustrations people experience in diverse settings There is a myth that work life balance can be achieved through quick fixes rather than challenging the place of paid work in people's lives and the way work actually gets done As well as exploring contemporary problems this book attempts to seed hope and new ways of thinking about one of the key challenges of our time

Restructuring Family Policies Maureen Baker,2006 Recent years have seen significant changes in the social policies of many liberal welfare states this is especially true of social programs for families with children Increasingly governments are making family policy trade offs reducing support for some families but improving it for others Why are such trade offs occurring and how do governments differ in their approach to family social policy This study addresses these questions by examining the political demographic and socio economic factors influencing the restructuring of family related programs in OECD countries Adopting a feminist political economy approach Maureen Baker shows that while some governments encourage their citizens to see children as future resources and promote strong support for reproductive health programs child welfare services women s refugees subsidized childcare and pay equity others make these claims while simultaneously reducing family incomes through the deregulation of labour markets and restrictions on income support Ultimately Baker demonstrates that nation states with the best outcomes for families offer a variety of social supports which are increasingly important as global markets reduce economic security for some families while improving the financial situation of others This study also explores strategies employed by states to incorporate or resist international pressures and the reasons why some states tenaciously defend their family policy traditions while others restructure according to international guidelines Drawing from nation based research cross national studies and international data bases Restructuring Family Policies successfully integrates mainstream academic debates about restructuring welfare states with feminist research findings and current policy concerns
