The Planetary Clock Paul Giles, 2021-02-11 The theme of The Planetary Clock is the representation of time in postmodern culture and the way temporality as a global phenomenon manifests itself differently across an antipodean axis To trace postmodernism in an expansive spatial and temporal arc from its formal experimentation in the 1960s to environmental concerns in the twenty first century is to describe a richer and more complex version of this cultural phenomenon Exploring different scales of time from a Southern Hemisphere perspective with a special emphasis on issues of Indigeneity and the Anthropocene The Planetary Clock offers a wide ranging revisionist account of postmodernism reinterpreting literature film music and visual art of the post 1960 period within a planetary framework By bringing the culture of Australia and New Zealand into dialogue with other Western narratives it suggests how an antipodean impulse involving the transposition of the world into different spatial and temporal dimensions has long been an integral if generally occluded aspect of postmodernism Taking its title from a Florentine clock designed in 1510 to measure worldly time alongside the rotation of the planets The Planetary Clock ranges across well known American postmodernists John Barth Toni Morrison to more recent science fiction writers Octavia Butler Richard Powers while bringing the US tradition into juxtaposition with both its English Philip Larkin Ian McEwan and Australian Les Murray Alexis Wright counterparts By aligning cultural postmodernism with music Messiaen Ligeti Birtwistle the visual arts Hockney Blackman Fiona Hall and cinema Rohmer Haneke Tarantino this volume enlarges our understanding of global postmodernism for the twenty first century

Liberalism and American Literature in the Clinton Era Ryan M. Brooks, 2022-06-30 Liberalism and American Literature in the Clinton Era argues that a new post postmodern aesthetic emerges in the 1990s as a group of American writers including Mary Gaitskill George Saunders Richard Powers Karen Tei Yamashita and others grapples with the political triumph of free market ideology The book shows how these writers resist the anti social qualities of this frantic right wing shift while still performing its essential gesture the personalization of otherwise irreducible social antagonisms Thus we see these writers reinvent political struggles as differences in values and emotions in fictions that explore non antagonistic social forms like families communities and networks Situating these formally innovative fictions in the context of the controversies that have defined this rightward shift including debates over free trade welfare reform and family values Brooks details how American writers and politicians have reinvented liberalism for the age of pro capitalist consensus

Mapping the World of

Anglo-American Studies at the Turn of the Century Marija Knežević, 2015-10-05 This volume revisits the most important issues that Anglo American studies are facing at the beginning of the twenty first century with regards to both research and teaching Given the English language s status as a lingua franca the culture that produced it and that has been changing it the literature written in English and relevant linguistic and literary discourse have come to largely dominate critical theory globally Therefore the subjects of Anglo American studies and their traditional and modern concepts must be approached from a multidisciplinary perspective and must also be problematized in and determined by other spheres of the world especially at the universities at which they are studied This book consequently approaches both mainstream cultural literary linguistic and academic achievements and often by way of comparison those smaller more distant and marginalized fields traditionally subordinate studies as well as instances of cultural hybridization Given its concern with a broad field of culture literature linguistics and methodology of teaching English as a foreign language this book consists of two main parts comprising the closest research and teaching fields one attending to culture and literature and the other approaching linguistics and methodology

Slow Violence in Contemporary American Environmental Literature Erden El, 2020-12-18 It has been approximately nine years since Rob Nixon coined the term slow violence to express the slow but deadly changes in the environment which cause the suffering of the poor These environmental catastrophes take place so gradually and out of sight that they are often ignored While Nixon dealt with the issues of slow violence in the Global South this book argues that slow violence is not limited to this region showing that poorer parts of America suffer from slow violence Concentrating on Illinois and the Appalachian region it reveals how slow violence occurs in these places and discusses the reflections of slow violence in various novels set in these locations

Challenging

Capitalism Peter A. Coclanis, Arne L. Kalleberg, 2025-11-24 Commentators today generally agree that we are at an inflection point in the history of capitalism. This economic system in its long regnant neoliberal form privileging free international trade promoting the transnational movement of capital and labor and advocating a limited role for the state has faltered if not failed and needs to be superseded by a new political economic architecture that accommodates pressing concerns relating to national security, climate change, inequality and equity and resiliency among others. Few serious writers are calling for capitalism to be razed as this system has proven far superior to others in generating wealth and providing higher living standards. Moreover, since its emergence centuries ago, capitalism has proved highly adaptable, able to survive even to thrive in both hospitable and inhospitable circumstances and surroundings, often in the face of stiff competition and outright opposition. In Challenging Capitalism, an interdisciplinary group of distinguished scholars addresses some of the likely challenges of a new political economic order that minimizes capitalism's deficiencies without impeding unduly its ability to facilitate and support wealth creation and human flourishing. An introductory chapter traces the development of capitalism as an economic system and identifies the three major eras in the modern version of capitalism. This chapter sets the stage for a baker's dozen chapters that examine important features and forms of the dominant economic system, including racial capitalism, platform capitalism, surveillance capitalism, authoritarian capitalism, and stakeholder capitalism. The authors approach capitalism and its future from different angles and from a variety of ideological perspectives, offering keen insights into the capitalist paths we have traveled, our position today, and the road or roads ahead. The book is essential reading for anyone interested in capitalism from across the social sciences and humanities, including political economy, sociology, history, political science, public policy, and economics. The Literary Review, 2000 The New Leader, 2002 Literature and Science Wai-chee Dimock, Priscilla Wald, 2002 The goal of this special issue of American Literature is to encourage scholars in both the sciences and the humanities to estrange themselves from their regular ways of thinking. Committed to understanding what each discipline has to teach the other, the contributors explore the changes in topics, approaches, and methodologies in the sciences, technology, and the humanities that surface when scholars take seriously the mandate to consider the basic assumptions of each field from the other point of view. The essays address the mutual impact of literature and science through a range of issues: geek novels as a subgenre of literature about science; the relationship of narrative form to risk analysis and ecological disaster; the impact of realism and contemporary developments in neurology and brain biology; and the use of technology in the humanities. The essays also examine how the humanities explore scientific issues such as in vitro fertilization and human existence, cloning, and molecular biology, and the concept of time.
