writer alive yet his pieces have never been collected into one volume The Way of Wanderlust: The Best Travel Writing of Don George fills this void with a moving and inspiring collection of tales and reflections from one of America's most acclaimed and beloved travel writers. From his high-spirited account of climbing Mount Kilimanjaro on a whim when he was 22 years old to his heart-plucking description of a home stay in a muddy compound in Cambodia as a 61-year-old, this collection ranges widely. As renowned for his insightful observations as for his poetic prose, George always absorbs the essence of the places he's visiting. Other stories here include a moving encounter with Australia's sacred red rock monolith Uluru, an immersion in country kindness on the Japanese island of Shikoku, the trials and triumphs of ascending Yosemite's Half Dome with his wife and children, and a magical morning at Machu Picchu.

Travel Writing in an Age of Global Quarantine Gary Fisher, David Robinson, 2022-04-05 Travel Writing in an Age of Global Quarantine is an anthology of travel accounts by a diverse range of writers and academics. Challenging conventional academic authority, each contributor writes from memory during the Covid-19 lockdown about a place they have previously visited, accompanied by an historical traveller who published an account of the same place. As immobility is forced upon us at least for the immediate future, we have the chance to reflect. Travel Writing in an Age of Global Quarantine presents opportunities to approach a text as a scholar differently. We break with the traditional academic rules by inserting ourselves into the narrative and foregrounding the personal, subjective elements of literary scholarship. Each contributor critiques an historical description of a place about which simultaneously they write a personal account. The travel writer Philip Marsden posits a fundamental difference between traditional academic writing and travel writing in that travel narratives do not or ought not anyway begin by assuming a scholarly authoritative understanding of the places they describe. Instead, they attempt to say what they found and how they felt about it. The very good point we think Marsden makes, and the one this book tries to demonstrate, is that as a matter of form, the first person narrative has the ability to expose the research process to allow the reader to see when and how a scholarly transformation takes place to give the scholar the opportunity to openly foreground their own subjectivity and say, "this is the personal journey that led me to my conclusions." To problematize the unchallenged authority of the scholar, Travel Writing in an Age of Global Quarantine challenges the idea of scholarly authority by embracing the subjective nature of research and the first person element. We address a problematic distance between travel writing practice and travel writing scholarship in which the latter talks about the former without ever really talking to it. Defining travel writing as a genre has often proved more difficult than it might seem, but Peter Hulme has suggested that it is ethically necessary for the writer to have visited the place described. Hulme asserts that travel writing is certainly literature, but it is never fiction. If this seems obvious, Travel Writing in an Age of Global Quarantine asks the reader to consider the idea that if visiting the place described is necessary for the writer to claim they have produced a travel account, might it also be necessary or at least advantageous and valuable for the writer of a scholarly critique of that account to have done the same.
