Terrorist Diversion Oliver May, Paul Curwell, 2020-09-03 Many of the world's 40,000 International NGOs (INGOs) work in places where terrorist financing, sanctions breaches and diversion are key risks Almost all of the top ten recipient countries of humanitarian aid alone in 2015 were high risk jurisdictions for example receiving more than 7bn between them When they feel safe to speak sector workers share sobering stories about what might have happened to some of this money As INGOs struggle to keep up with worsening humanitarian needs diversion risks and their complexity remain daunting The demands of internal stakeholders, donors, banks and regulators are diverse and even contradictory Public scrutiny has magnified but is not always well informed Institutional donors transfer ever more risk to implementing partners while some banks seek to avoid this business altogether pushing some NGOs outside the global banking system Looming over all of these converging pressures is a latticework of austere international sanctions and counter terror regimes It is no surprise that INGOs find themselves struggling to reconcile this complex set of expectations with their charitable missions Yet the consequences of failing to do so can be severe future funding is contingent on reputation and serious offences litter the regulatory landscape The implications of breaches can be existential for organisations and criminal for individuals

Terrorist Diversion: A Guide to Prevention and Detection for NGOs is an accessible pragmatic guide for international NGOs of all shapes and sizes Clearly explaining the nature of the challenge and setting out a programme to meet it it explores how it is possible for INGOs to manage these risks more effectively through their missions not in spite of them

Sanctions, Business and Human Rights Alena F. Douhan, 2025-10-01. The use of unilateral sanctions, the means of their enforcement, and over-compliance and the implementation of UN Security Council resolutions in the face of unilateral sanctions raise serious concerns related to international law and in particular to international human rights and humanitarian law, as well as questions related to political and economic decision-making. Despite the existence of multiple publications focusing on sanctions of the UN Security Council and on unilateral sanctions, the issues of over-compliance, sanctions enforcement, an assessment of the legality and impact of various types of unilateral sanctions, and access to justice and to remedies in particular appear to have been overlooked and urgently need to be addressed. Sanctions, Business and Human Rights provides a comprehensive analysis and assessment of the current state of affairs with regards to unilateral sanctions, not only from the perspective of human rights law but also by involving other disciplines such as political science and economics, as well as other areas of international law, including principles of international law and international trade law. This book, edited by UN Special Rapporteur Alena F. Douhan, features 22 highly credentialed contributors from a wide range of countries around the world addressing WTO law international economic law human rights law international humanitarian law sources of international law the law of international responsibility international cyber law international commercial arbitration international private law and many other areas Their reports demonstrate that access to justice access to remedies mechanisms of accountability and redress universally recognized as the means of promotion and protection of all human rights as well as of the rule of law in general cannot be guaranteed in sanctions environments and sometimes cannot be applied at all Lawyers who traditionally play an important role in the promotion and protection of human rights are affected by unilateral sanctions and subjected to higher risks and responsibility for circumvention or alleged circumvention of unilateral sanctions regimes
