Neurotechnology and Direct Brain Communication Michele Farisco, Kathinka Evers, 2016-04-28

Neurotechnology and Direct Brain Communication focuses on recent neuroscientific investigations of infant brains and of patients with disorders of consciousness DOC both of which are at the forefront of contemporary neuroscience The prospective use of neurotechnology to access mental states in these subjects including neuroimaging brain simulation and brain computer interfaces offers new opportunities for clinicians and researchers but has also received specific attention from philosophical scientific ethical and legal points of view This book offers the first systematic assessment of these issues investigating the tools neurotechnology offers to care for verbally non communicative subjects and suggesting a multidisciplinary approach to the ethical and legal implications of ordinary and experimental practices The book is divided into three parts the first and second focus on the scientific and clinical implications of neurological tools for DOC patient and infant care With reference to these developments the third and final part presents the case for re evaluating classical ethical and legal concepts such as authority informed consent and privacy Neurotechnology and Direct Brain Communication will appeal to researchers and postgraduate students in the fields of cognitive science medical ethics medical technology and the philosophy of the mind With implications for patient care it will also be a useful resource for clinicians medical centres and health practitioners

The Self-system Annerieke Oosterwegel, Louis Oppenheimer, 2013-05-13 This book presents a longitudinal study dealing with developmental changes within and between self concepts and their relation to personal functioning Within the psychological literature and the developmental literature in particular the interest in the ideas people hold about themselves and their relation with personal functioning is rapidly growing This interest is reinforced by the emphasis on individuality in Western society The self system is now thought to consist of a collection of self concepts in which a distinction is made between domain specific self concepts the real and ideal and context related self concepts the academic the athletic and the social It is also considered to be subjective rather than objective This subjective self involves characteristics such as continuity and distinctiveness from others These characteristics have been the primary focus of recent research In existing literature on the development of the self system little is known about the structural characteristics that is developmental changes in the interrelationships among domain specific and context related self concepts or between and within self concepts Similarly little information is available about the relationships between individuals real and ideal self concepts their perceived concepts of others and the actual ideas others have about the same individuals This book integrates hitherto separate and different components or aspects of self knowledge into one encompassing multidimensional self system From Work-Family Balance to Work-Family Interaction Diane F. Halpern, Susan Elaine Murphy, 2013-06-17 This volume will discuss measures of work family conflict policies designed to reduce conflict comparisons with other industrialized nations and reasons why family friendly work policies have not been adopted with enthusiasm Basic Nursing Leslie S Treas, Judith M Wilkinson, 2013-09-04 Thinking Doing Caring In every chapter you ll first explore the theoretical knowledge behind the concepts principles and rationales Then you ll study the practical knowledge involved in the processes and finally you ll learn the skills and procedures Student resources available at DavisPlus davisplus fadavis com Cornell University Courses of Study Cornell University, 2005
