A Contest without Winners Kate Phillippo, 2019-03-19 Seeing the consequences of competitive school choice policy through students eyes While policymakers often justify school choice as a means to alleviate opportunity and achievement gaps an unanticipated effect is increased competition over access to coveted high performing schools In A Contest without Winners Kate Phillippo follows a diverse group of Chicago students through the processes of researching applying to and enrolling in public high school Throughout this journey students prove themselves powerful policy actors who carry out and redefine competitive choice Phillippo s work amplifies the voices of students rather than the parents educators public intellectuals and policymakers who so often inform school choice research and investigates how students interact with and emerge from competitive choice academically developmentally and civically Through students experiences she shows how competitive choice legitimates and exacerbates existing social inequalities collides with students developmental vulnerability to messages about their ability merit and potential and encourages young people s individualistic actions as they come to feel that they must earn their educational rights From urban infrastructure to income inequality to racial segregation Phillippo examines the factors that shape students policy enactment and interpretation as policymakers and educators ask students to compete for access to public resources With competitive choice even the winners the lucky few admitted to their dream schools don t outright win A Contest without Winners challenges meritocratic and market driven notions of opportunity creation for young people and raises critical questions about the goals we have for public schooling
