Hollywood Vault Eric Hoyt, 2014-07-03 Hollywood Vault is the story of how the business of film libraries emerged and evolved spanning the silent era to the sale of feature libraries to television Eric Hoyt argues that film libraries became valuable not because of the introduction of new technologies but because of the emergence and growth of new markets and suggests that studying the history of film libraries leads to insights about their role in the contemporary digital marketplace The history begins in the mid 1910s when the star system and other developments enabled a market for old films that featured current stars After the transition to films with sound the reissue market declined but the studios used their libraries for the production of remakes and other derivatives The turning point in the history of studio libraries occurred during the mid to late 1940s when changes in American culture and an industry wide recession convinced the studios to employ their libraries as profit centers through the use of theatrical reissues In the 1950s intermediary distributors used the growing market of television to harness libraries aggressively as foundations for cross media expansion a trend that continues today By the late 1960s the television marketplace and the exploitation of film libraries became so lucrative that they prompted conglomerates to acquire the studios The first book to discuss film libraries as an important and often underestimated part of Hollywood history Hollywood Vault presents a fascinating trajectory that incorporates cultural legal and industrial history

Motion Picture Herald, 1925 Pacific Poultrycraft, 1925 InTech, 1995 Nordic Exposures Arne Lunde, 2011-07-01 Nordic Exposures explores how Scandinavian whiteness and ethnicity functioned in classical Hollywood cinema between and during the two world wars Scandinavian identities could seem mutable and constructed at moments while at other times they were deployed as representatives of an essential biological and natural category As Northern European Protestants Scandinavian immigrants and emigres assimilated into the mainstream rights and benefits of white American identity with comparatively few barriers or obstacles Yet Arne Lunde demonstrates that far from simply manifesting a normative unmarked whiteness Scandinavianness in mass immigration America and in Hollywood cinema of the twentieth century could be hyperwhite provisionally off white or not even white at all Lunde investigates key silent films such as Technicolor's The Viking 1928 Victor Sjöström's He Who Gets Slapped 1924 and Mauritz Stiller's Hotel Imperial 1927 The crises of Scandinavian foreign voice and the talkie revolution are explored in Greta Garbo's first sound film Anna
