

Durkheim- Solidarity and skills

Solidarity:

- Is necessary in society to be part of a community that has shared norms and values, and that education provides it.
- Says education does this by transmitting shared beliefs and values from one generation to the next

EG: teaching a country's history gives pupils a feel of shared heritage and commitment to wider social groups.

- School is 'society in miniature'- prepares us for later life.

EG: teacher/pupils are like colleagues/customers at work. Or school rules like dress codes are similar to workplaces.

Specialist skills:

- Argues that education gives pupils knowledge and skills needed for work.
- Economies have complex divisions of labour, so school helps pupils to get the skills needed to fulfil their 'place' in the workforce.

Davis & Moore- Role allocation

- Argue that education allocated pupils to suitable future job roles.
- They focus on the relationship between education and inequality- That important roles in society need to be for the skilled and talented, as some are naturally more talented than others.
- Education is where students prove their ability, and are then sifted and sorted by ability. The highest qualifications get the highest positions.

These are known as functionally important roles.

Parsons- Meritocracy

- Argues that school bridges the gap between the family and wider society- children have to learn society's principles.

Particularistic standards: rules/judgements that only apply within the family.

Universalistic standards: rules/judgements that apply to everyone, in school and wider society.

- Believes school/wider society gives us achieved status gained through efforts/achievement, not through fixed characteristic like gender or class- ascribed status
- Meritocracy at school helps us move from family to wider society, meritocracy is where everyone is given equal opportunities, and are rewarded through their own efforts/ability.

Functionalism

Evaluation of the functionalist perspective:

- Wolf (2011)- found that high quality apprenticeships are rare, and often don't result in high-paid jobs- means education doesn't teach specialist skills adequately.
- Equal opportunities don't exist in education- achievement is based in factors like race, gender and class- not ability.
- Tumin (1953)- David and Moore's argument is circular, -we know a job is important because it's highly rewarded, and a job is highly rewarded because it's important.
- Marxists say education in a capitalist society only transmits ideas of the ruling class- not the shared beliefs and values of society as a whole.
- Interactionalist Wrong (1961)- the functionalist view is 'over socialised' and sees people as society's puppets- assumes pupils passively accept teachings and don't reject values.
- New Right and Neoliberals- argue that the state education system fails to prepare students for work.

subject and to place this data in a framework that illustrates its significance for the development of theory In an extensive introduction the editor explains the several purposes of the book and describes in detail the process of comparative analysis through which sociological theory on organizational careers can be generated Organized around general themes such as recruitment motivation commitment mobility and succession the writings of prominent sociologists including Riesman Caplow Hughes Becker and Wilensky form the content of the book and systematically cover every important facet of organizational careers The editor s introductions to each section of the book alert the reader to the general phenomena such as processes conditions categories hypotheses and properties that crosscut and are generally relevant to all organizational careers and are therefore the raw material of theory These introductions also suggest questions and problems for further analysis and research This book as a whole stands as a demonstration of the contributors method of how the sociologist working from the data of research can generate grounded formal theory on this or any social phenomenon This book also presents a vital body of data on organizational careers and a guide to further research that will be of great use both to occupational sociologists and to all those involved in the study of organizations
