This recommended practice addresses general principles for the safe installation and maintenance of offshore, geotechnically-relevant mooring systems on fixed or floating offshore platforms, offshore support vessels, and other offshore rigs, semi-submersible drilling rigs and other types of mobile offshore drilling units (MODUs). This document also provides recommendations and best practices for personnel working on mooring, service operations, and testing of mooring systems that are installed offshore.

These requirements are relevant for use and not limited to the following:

- 1) Offshore oil exploration and production operations, fixed vessels and towers mounted on a fixed structure, compliant structure, floating structure, structure, or ship-shaped vessel used in drilling and production operations for offshore resources and storage;
- 2) Offshore operations, fixed lifting devices (called by 20,000 lbs (9,072 kg) or more) are mounted on a surface that cannot shift and used to move, transport, or install, while doing basic systems, cables, components, and other materials in the water, between vessels, etc. (in line or at, but not in, the water);
- 3) Floating applications, cranes for mooring applications are installed on barges, self-unloading vessels or other vessels, and are used in construction and storage operations above and below the sea surface.

Equipment as a result of such testing used here for mooring operations, including the tests or the data and not included in the scope of this recommended practice.

Lifting devices not covered by this document should be applied, installed, and maintained in accordance with the manufacturer's recommendations.
