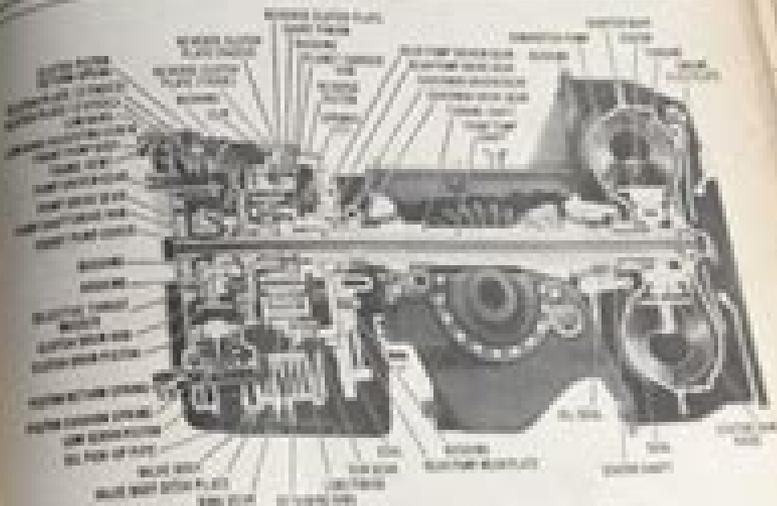

Fig. 1. Powerglide

DESCRIPTION

The Powerglide transmission is a four-speed, manual, sliding-gear type. It is designed to be used with the Corvair engine and is a major component of the drivetrain. The transmission is mounted to the chassis and is connected to the engine and the rear axle. The input shaft is connected to the engine and the output shaft is connected to the rear axle. The gears are arranged in a straight line and are meshed with each other. The sliding-gear mechanism allows the driver to select the desired gear by moving the shift lever to the left or right and then pushing or pulling the shift knob forward or backward.

MAINTENANCE

Adding Oil
The Powerglide transmission requires a specific grade of oil for proper operation. The oil level should be checked regularly and topped off as needed. The oil should be changed at the intervals specified in the maintenance schedule. The shift linkage should be inspected and adjusted as needed to ensure proper operation. The shift knob and shift lever should be kept in good condition and lubricated as needed. The transmission housing should be kept clean and free of dirt and debris. The input and output shafts should be inspected for wear and replaced if necessary. The gears should be inspected for wear and replaced if necessary.
