Language And The Cognitive Construal Of The World:

Language and the Cognitive Construal of the World John R. Taylor, Robert E. MacLaury, 2010-12-14 TRENDS IN LINGUISTICS is a series of books that open new perspectives in our understanding of language. The series publishes state of the art work on core areas of linguistics across theoretical frameworks as well as studies that provide new insights by building bridges to neighbouring fields such as neuroscience and cognitive science. TRENDS IN LINGUISTICS considers itself a forum for cutting edge research based on solid empirical data on language in its various manifestations including sign languages. It regards linguistic variation in its synchronic and diachronic dimensions as well as in its social contexts as important sources of insight for a better understanding of the design of linguistic systems and the ecology and evolution of language. TRENDS IN LINGUISTICS publishes monographs and outstanding dissertations as well as edited volumes which provide the opportunity to address controversial topics from different empirical and theoretical viewpoints. High quality standards are ensured through anonymous reviewing.

Culture, Body, and Language Farzad Sharifian, René Dirven, Ning Yu, Susanne Niemeier, 2008-11-03 One of the central themes in cognitive linguistics is the uniquely human development of some higher potential called the mind and more particularly the intertwining of body and mind which has come to be known as embodiment. Several books and volumes have explored this theme in length. However the interaction between culture, body and language has not received the due attention that it deserves. Naturally any serious exploration of the interface between body, language and culture would require an analytical tool that would capture the ways in which different cultural groups conceptualize their feelings, thinking and other experiences in relation to body and language. A well established notion that appears to be promising in this direction is that of cultural models constituting the building blocks of a group's cultural cognition. The volume results from an attempt to bring together a group of scholars from various language backgrounds to make a collective attempt to explore the relationship between body, language and culture by focusing on conceptualizations of the heart and other internal body organs across a number of languages. The general aim of this venture is to explore the ways in which internal body organs have been employed in different languages to conceptualize human experiences such as emotions and or workings of the mind and by the cultural models that appear to account for the observed similarities as well as differences of the various conceptualizations of internal body organs. The volume as a whole engages not only with linguistic analyses of terms that refer to internal body organs across different languages but also with the origin of the cultural models that are associated with internal body organs in different cultural systems such as ethnomedical and religious traditions. Some contributions also discuss their findings in relations to some philosophical doctrines that have addressed the relationship between mind, body and language such as that of Descartes.

Vantage Theory Adam Gład, Marnie L. Moist, 2013-09-11 The book is concerned with Vantage Theory (VT) a model of categorization proposed by the American linguist, anthropologist and cognitive scientist Robert E. MacLaury (1944-2004). It consists of three of his previously unpublished studies and five chapters by other authors Vantage Theory views categorization as a process of vantage point of view construction by analogy to the way humans orient themselves in space time Originating in the domain of color the theory was extended to cover other aspects of cognition and language The chapters authored by MacLaury introduce the model discuss the details of the analogy between space time and categorization and present four case studies The remaining chapters present an overview of the existing literature on VT locate the model against the broader background of psychological and cognitive research and propose its application to novel data Encyclopedia of Language and Linguistics, 2005-11-24 The first edition of ELL 1993 Ron Asher Editor was hailed as the field s standard reference work for a generation Now the all new second edition matches ELL s comprehensiveness and high quality expanded for a new generation while being the first encyclopedia to really exploit the multimedia potential of linguistics The most authoritative up to date comprehensive and international reference source in its field An entirely new work with new editors new authors new topics and newly commissioned articles with a handful of classic articles The first Encyclopedia to exploit the multimedia potential of linguistics through the online edition Ground breaking and International in scope and approach Alphabetically arranged with extensive cross referencing Available in print and online priced separately The online version will include updates as subjects develop ELL2 includes c 7 500 000 words c 11 000 pages c 3 000 articles c 1 500 figures 130 halftones and 150 colour Supplementary audio video and text files online c 3 500 glossary definitions c 39 000 references Extensive list of commonly used abbreviations List of languages of the world including information on no of speakers language family etc Approximately 700 biographical entries now includes contemporary linguists 200 language maps in print and online Also available online via ScienceDirect featuring extensive browsing searching and internal cross referencing between articles in the work plus dynamic linking to journal articles and abstract databases making navigation flexible and easy For more information pricing options and availability visit www.info.sciencedirect.com The first Encyclopedia to exploit the multimedia potential of linguistics Ground breaking in scope wider than any predecessor An invaluable resource for researchers academics students and professionals in the fields of linguistics anthropology education psychology language acquisition language pathology cognitive science sociology the law the media medicine computer science The most authoritative up to date comprehensive and international reference source in its field Language, Communication and the Economy Guido Erreygers, Geert Jacobs, 2005-01-01 This volume brings together a number of wide ranging transdisciplinary research articles on the interface between discourse studies and economics It explores in what way economics can contribute to the analysis of discursive practices in various institutional settings as well as investigating what role discourse studies can play in economic research The contributors are linguists communication scholars economists and other social scientists drawing on various traditions including Critical Discourse Analysis Cognitive Linguistics ethnography and the literature on the rhetoric of economics and on economic storytelling All articles are essentially empirical focusing on the details of actual language use

The type of data analysed ranges from the minutes of university policy meetings and large scale corpora of newspaper language over books of economic theory from both well respected economists and monetary cranks to cartoons from The Economist

Metonymy in Language and Thought Klaus-Uwe Panther, Günter Radden, 1999-01-01 Metonymy in Language and Thought gives a state of the art account of metonymic research The contributions have different disciplinary and theoretical backgrounds in linguistics psycholinguistics psychology and literary studies However they share the assumption that metonymy is a cognitive phenomenon a figure of thought underlying much of our ordinary conceptualization that may be even more fundamental than metaphor The use of metonymy in language is a reflection of this conceptual status The framework within which metonymy is understood in this volume is that of scenes frames scenarios domains or idealized cognitive models The chapters are revised papers given at the Metonymy Workshop held in Hamburg 1996

Applied Cultural Linguistics Farzad Sharifian, Gary B. Palmer, 2007-04-11 Research in the relatively new field of cultural linguistics has implications for second language learning and intercultural communication This volume is the first of its kind to bring together studies that examine the implications for applied programs of research in these domains Collectively the contributions explore the interrelationship between language culture and conceptualisations Each study focuses on a different language and culture The languages cultures studied include Japanese Chinese Arabic Persian English Aboriginal English and African English The particular conceptual bases of the contributions range from theories of embodiment and conceptual metaphors to theories of schemas and cultural scripts Several authors directly address the application of their observations to the fields of second language dialect learning and intercultural communication while others first present a theoretical analysis and then explore its practical implications Collectively the contributions establish a novel direction for research in applied linguistics

International Journal of American Linguistics, 1999 Cognitive Linguistics Kamila Turewicz, 2005 □□□□□□, 2003 Word, 2000 Cognitive Perspectives on Language Barbara Lewandowska-Tomaszczyk, 1999 The papers collected in the present volume show that the terms cognitivism and cognitive so common in present day linguistic discourse do not refer to a single theoretical mode or approach to language Firstly the papers show that cognitivism is a lively research area accommodating a wide spectrum of approaches Secondly they address a number of issues ranging from grammaticalization event structure semantic representation equivalence image schematic representations and lexicography to poetry metaphor metonymy and national mentality Some of the contributions deal with the linguistic phenomena in one language while others take up a cross linguistic approach

Language, 2006 Cognitive Linguistics Today Barbara Lewandowska-Tomaszczyk, Kamila Turewicz, 2002 This volume contains papers presented at the first international cognitive linguistics conference in Poland Cognitive Linguistics in the Year 2001 organized by the Faculty of Philology of the University of Lodz on 19-23 April 2001 A number of invited papers are also included With this publication we intend to offer a survey of the problems taken up by Cognitive Linguistics today as well as some solutions The leading themes are interdisciplinarity applicability and research methodology in Cognitive Linguistics The issue of interdisciplinarity has always been part and parcel of cognitive linguistic studies in which different fields of science and humanities converge This context creates a certain tension within the research methods used in CL analysis some of which are dealt with in this volume The applicability of CL research findings to diverse fields such as literature culture studies language education and others involving a number of leading projects on the CL agenda are also represented in the volume

Inner Worlds Albert H. Kamp, 2004 This book first establishes a cognitive linguistic approach that can be instructively applied to the text of Jonah A subsequent examination of the nuances of the Hebrew text reveals how the author creates an inner world for the reader in which Jonah's perspectives on his misfortunes are contrasted with the transcendent perspective of a gracious God

Pragmatics of Space Andreas H. Jucker, Heiko Hausendorf, 2022-09-20 This handbook provides a comprehensive overview of spatial configurations of language use and of language use in space It consists of four parts The first part covers the various practices of describing space through language including spatial references in spoken interaction or in written texts the description of motion events as well as the creation of imaginative spaces in storytelling The second part surveys aspects of the spatial organization of face to face communication including not only spatial arrangements of small groups in interaction but also the spatial dimension of sign language and gestures The third part is devoted to the communicative resources of constructed spaces and the ways in which these facilitate and shape communication Part four finally is devoted to pragmatics across space and cultures i e the ways in which language use differs across language varieties languages and cultures
