Looking for Love in the Legal Discourse of Marriage Renata Grossi, 2014-09-01 This book examines the in visibility of romantic love in the legal discourse surrounding modern Australian marriage It looks at how romantic love has become a core part of modernity and a dominant part of the Western marriage discourse and considers how the ideologies of romantic love are or are not replicated in the legal meaning of marriage This examination raises two key issues If love has become central to people's understanding of marriage then it is important for the legitimacy of law that love is reflected in both the content and application of the law More fundamentally it requires us to reconsider how we understand law and to ask whether it is engaged with emotions or separate from them Along the way this book also considers the meaning of love itself in contemporary society and asks whether love is a radical force capable of breaking down conservative meanings embedded in institutions like marriage or whether it simply mirrors them This book will be of interest to everyone working on love marriage and sexuality in the disciplines of law sociology and philosophy

Human

Rights Law and Personal Identity Jill Marshall, 2014-06-20 This book explores the role human rights law plays in the formation and protection of our personal identities Drawing from a range of disciplines Jill Marshall examines how human rights law includes and excludes specific types of identity which feed into moral norms of human freedom and human dignity and their translation into legal rights The book takes on a three part structure Part I traces the definition of identity and follows the evolution of and protects a right to personal identity and personality within human rights law It specifically examines the development of a right to personal identity as property the inter subjective nature of identity and the intercession of power and inequality Part II evaluates past and contemporary attempts to describe the core of personal identity including theories concerning the soul the rational mind and the growing influence of neuroscience and genetics in explaining what it means to be human It also explores the inter relation and conflict between universal principles and culturally specific rights Part III focuses on issues and case law that can be interpreted as allowing self determination Marshall argues that while in an age of individual identity people are increasingly obliged to live in conformed ways pushing out identities that do not fit with what is acceptable Drawing on feminist theory the book concludes by arguing how human rights law would be better interpreted as a force to enable respect for human dignity and freedom interpreted as empowerment and self determination whilst acknowledging our inter subjective identities In drawing on socio legal philosophical biological and feminist outlooks this book is truly interdisciplinary and will be of great interest and use to scholars and students of human rights law legal and social theory gender and cultural studies
